Senior military commanders will meet on the Chinese side of Chushul-Moldo Border for the 10th round of talks on Saturday

OTHER FRICTION POINTS TO BE DISCUSSED

Both sides pulled back troops from the north and south banks of the lake in a four-step plan that comprised withdrawing armour, artillery and other heavy equipment, followed by infantry. K'taka aims to have Jan Aushadi centres in all govt hospitals

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

KARNATAKA may well become the first state in the country to have Jan Aushadi centres in all government hospitals. With the Union Government planning to start such centres in all government hospitals across the country, Karnataka is likely to take the lead in taking up the initiative to make medicines available at affordable prices to more people.

Currently, under the Pradhan Mantri Bhartiya Janaushadhi Pariyojana (PMBJP), there are nearly 7,500 Jan Aushadi Kendras in the country, of which 850, accounting for over 10 per cent, are in Karnataka. The State Government is targeting to have 1,000 centres by end of this year. On an average, 20 new Kendras are being opened in Karnataka every month.

Bengaluru Urban district alone has 211 centres, followed by Dakshina Kannada with 76 centres. As on date, the state has recorded Rs 118 crore business from these centres for the year 2020-21. The government is hoping to touch Rs 125-130 crore turnover by the end of March 2021. The state will have main distribution centres at Bengaluru, Hubballi, one in Coastal Karnataka and also in Kalyana Karnataka. "Distribution of medicines to centres will be done from here,'' said the sources.

DELHI HIGH COURT RAPS MEDIA SENSATIONALISM

Says cover toolkit case based on verified sources; Disha custody extended

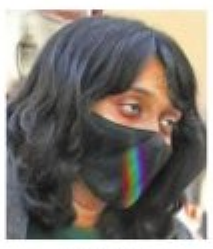
EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

ON a day a local court placed activist Disha Ravi in three-day judicial custody in connection with the toolkit case, the Delhi High Court on Friday underlined her right to privacy and told media houses not to sensationalise the coverage of the probe. The high court passed the directions on a plea filed by Disha regarding leak of probe details, and sensational coverage by media houses.

Earlier, seeking more time to interrogate Disha, the Delhi Police told a court: "We have issued notices to several others to join the probe. We want to confront Disha and Shantanu. During the course of interrogation, Disha shifted the blame onto Nikita and Shantanu."

In the high court, Additional Solicitor General Suryaprakash V Raju strongly opposed Disha's petition, saying the activist was defaming and vilifying the police. He claimed that the petition was a systematic attempt to blame the police and derail the investigation.

However, the h igh court stated: "Right to privacy, the sovereignty and integrity of the country and the freedom of speech need to be balanced. The recent coverage definitely shows there is sensationalised reporting by the media. While press briefings are held generally, media cannot disseminate the information in such a sensationalised manner."



Disha Ravi

Upholding the journalistic ethics of not disclosing the source, the court, however, directed media houses to base their coverage on verified and authentic sources.

Disha had moved the high court seeking to restrain the police from leaking to the media any probe material in relation to the FIR lodged against her. The petition had also sought to restrain the media from publishing the content of her private chats.

Disha's parents are distraught, says advocate

BALA CHAUHAN @ Bengaluru

CLIMATE activist Disha Ravi's parents were "extremely emotionally distraught" after a Delhi court remanded her to judicial custody for three days on Friday. "Her parents thought that on the completion of Disha's five days in police custody, she would be released and she could return home. They are laypersons and don't understand the difference between police and judicial custody. Their anxiety has only heightened after she was remanded to judicial custody," said Disha's family friend and advocate R Prasanna.

Her arrest in the farmers' protest toolkit case has sent shock waves and led to angry reactions from activists, students, human rights organisations among others. Prasanna said that he was expecting that the court would send Disha to judicial custody, given the "nature of the offence she has been charged with, the gravity of the situation and the hype that has been created around it".

Landmark UK verdict on Uber drivers as staff sparks hope

A landmark verdict of the UK Supreme Court on Friday classifying ride-hailing app Uber's drivers as its employees and not self-employed, was widely welcomed by drivers' unions in India, hoping it would help build their case for changing the oppressive work conditions back home.

It ruled that the driver would have full protection as an employee from the moment the app is switched on and not from when the ride commences.

A similar demand for the regularisation of Uber and Ola drivers is pending before the Industrial Tribunal in Kerala's Thrissur. T R S Kumar, president of the All Kerala Online Taxi Driver Union, said online taxi drivers are upbeat about the UK verdict. "We were first in India to file a similar case. We hope the UK Supreme Court verdict would be helpful in our case as well. It will surely be a lesson to employers to treat online taxi drivers as regular employees with pension and other welfare schemes," he said.

However, Tanveer Pasha, president of the Ola-Uber Drivers Association in Bengaluru, was not as upbeat. He said six months back a similar order was passed by California courts and the parliament there.

ISRAELI FIRM TO FUND, BUILD PRR IN 3 YEARS

Says it can lay 1 km of road on 8-lane project every day; cost escalates further

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

THE Peripheral Ring Road (PRR) project, aimed at decongesting the city's traffic in a big way, will be ready in three years if the fresh move to implement it through an Israeli infrastructure-cum-funding agency comes through. A specialised technology will be followed in laying of roads which will ensure that the project is completed by August 2024, said a senior official of the Bangalore Development Authority, which is implementing the project.

Israeli private concern Symba Maz has come forward to fund the 73-km project with eight lanes plus four service lanes, which has now escalated to cost ₹21,250 crore. The construction cost has also shot up to ₹5,750 crore. "The increase in cost because of two minor additions we have incorporated in the original 65.5-km project which pushed it by an additional 7.5 km," the official added.

An Indian joint venture, based in Bengaluru, APIC Freeway Pvt Ltd, has submitted its Expression of Interest for implementing the project. It comprises of construction firms AFCONS, STUPS Ltd and Symba Maz. "The firm has asked BDA to go ahead with its Swiss Challenge tender if it wanted to, as it was sure that it was the best bidder for the project," the official said. Land acquisiton and calling of tenders will take up to a year while the actual construction will take two years.

The CM recently mentioned that an Israeli firm had shown interest in funding the project without specifying details. "The big plus is that unlike our past funders, Symba Maz has agreed to fund both land acquisition and construction cost. The one condition they made is that we allow them to operate it for a period of 50 years instead of the 30 years we had in mind initially," another official said. The concern will be allowed to collect toll charges during the period as well as mobilise revenues through digital advertising, he added.

The big innovation that the JV plans to bring in is the 'STABIROAD' model of laying of road. They plan to deploy eight machines for the eight lanes and stress that they will be able to lay 1 km per day on each lane," he added.

Official order issued to restart Classes 6-8 offline

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE state government on Friday issued an official order confirming that schools will reopen for Classes 6, 7 and 8 for offline classes from Februrary 22. However, this doesn't include those in BBMP limits in Bengaluru and districts bordering Kerala, including Kodagu, Dakshina Kannada, Mysuru and Chamarajanagar.

According to the circular issued by the education department, the timings will be 10.30 am to 4.30 pm on all six days. Meanwhile, the schools which are permitted under Vidyagama, will hold classes from 10.30 am to 12.30 pm.

However, parents' consent is mandatory for students to attend offline classes. Also, it is mandatory for children to get their own lunch boxes.

Teachers and staff have to take a Covid test before reporting to take classes in Karnataka. Random tests will be conducted at some of the schools across the state frequently, the order stated.

Students coming from Kerala must carry a Covid-negative certificate that is not older than 72 hours. This applies to students living in hostels in Karnataka.

SOARING FUEL PRICES LEAVE TRANSPORT SECTOR GASPING

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

SOARING fuel prices have left the transport industry in the lurch. Not just that, their business has also been hit by the increasing rise in the prices of essential commodities. The increase in diesel prices by Rs 21 in the past year since February has impacted tour and travel operators, who are coughing up huge sums on fuel, besides paying highway toll.

Karnataka State Travel Operators' Association K Radhakrishna Holla said their industry had seen a 50 percent decline in business due to the Covid pandemic. "With international flights cancelled and companies offering work-from-home options, there is no business. Now, the increasing fuel prices are making things worse. As of now, we are only serving economy passengers and we cannot transfer our burden to them by increasing prices," he said.

"Almost 90 per cent of taxis run on diesel. As all benefits extended during the lockdown have been withdrawn, these drivers are burdened as they have to repay loans," he added, suggesting that the government should come up with alternate plans or slash taxes to stop the increase.

The state of the transport sector is no different. Karnataka State Lorry Owners Association president GR Shanmugappa said the increased transport cost has also resulted in an increase in the price of essentials. "We pay Rs 6 more on every kilometre due to the hike and transport companies are reeling under losses. Due to this, 30 per cent of vehicles have stopped operating. Compared to other states, we spend more on fuel. I demand the government to intervene," he said, adding that lorry owners were meeting on March 5 to discuss going on an indefinite strike.

Bangalore Petroleum Dealers' Association president A Balaji Rao said that bringing down sales tax was the only way out. "As fuel is also an essential commodity, the government has to do something to stop the increase in prices. We were hoping something would be done in this connection in the Union Budget, but that did not happen. Now, we are hoping that at least the state government will slash taxes in the upcoming budget."

Vaccination: Use post offices to link mobile with Aadhaar

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

AS the Centre made it mandatory to link mobile number with Aadhaar card for Covid vaccination, the Karnataka Circle of the Postal Department has asked the public to make use of its vast network in the state to carry out the process.

Chief Postmaster General (CPMG), Karnataka Circle, Sharda Sampath told TNIE, "As many as 861 post offices and sub-post offices across the state will carry out Aadhaar-related updation work. We urge the public to use our network to complete the formalities required for the vaccination."

The National Expert Group on Vaccine Administration of Covid specified on January 10 that the record was required to help identify people getting vaccinated and to keep a digital record of the vaccinator, date, venue and the specific vaccine.

The Postal Department had been facilitating Aadhaar-related work for the Unique Identification Authority of India (UIDAI) since January 2017, said Director of Postal Services, Bengaluru, K Raveendran. "While we do not charge anything for the service, a nominal fee of Rs 30 is charged by UIDAI for any update related to Aadhaar cards. We carry out the updation immediately," he explained.

The department is also in the process of conducting camps across the state to make it easier for people to update their mobile numbers, Raveendran added.

The CPMG said they have now approached the Chief Secretary with the request that around 14,000 frontline workers in the Postal Department be considered as covidwarriors and given priority for administration of the vaccine. "Postmen and women, Gramin Dak Sevaks, branch managers, and those interacting with the public in all post offices, are all risking themselves daily," he added.

PETER VIDAL

20th February : I'm rather keen on today's realistic Moon. It sends out a strong message that it's best to look out for details and adopt a sound, practical approach in all matters - even when you're having fun. In my opinion, a lingering Sun-Uranus aspect is still a warning that risks are best avoided.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Weather and other commitments permitting, this is still a superb time for rural excursions or trips to another part of the country. Happily, Mercury, ruler of short journeys, is still stirring you up, encouraging you to look further afield for your next bout of satisfaction.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
You may be squeezed between two conflicting trends; one a desire to get to grips with the facts, the other a realisation that the truth lies in your imagination rather than in the real world. Such a dilemma implies that extreme caution is the best policy.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
For a short time mystery is in the air, and today's planetary picture could add a new twist. Your Mercurial talents are ideally suited to digging out the truth, and there seems little doubt that this will turn out to be much stranger than you ever imagined.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Although there will be difficult times, partners will offer you succour and protection over the coming weeks. Today, though, a mystery will intensify, perhaps clouding your vision and obscuring the facts. Why, you ask yourself, can't people just get on with each other?

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
You are supposed to be a generous partner, yet in the final analysis you're much too keen on your own ideas to really be able to agree or compromise with people who have opposing views. This stubborn attitude may be out of place today, so don't force issues which should be left well alone.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Perhaps it's just that you've been overworking but a long holiday is becoming an increasingly attractive proposition. Yet, even if you do get away, you will take your professional concerns with you. Perhaps you're just looking for a way out from emotional stress!

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
A challenging alignment from Venus to Mars encourages strange and little-known influences, which in turn stimulates your emotional desires but promotes caution. You would be advised to stand your ground, though - but never fight a battle you can't win.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Partners must, repeat must, be involved in your financial thinking, even though it may not be the easiest thing in the world to make yourself understood. Is someone now being deliberately obtuse? Or do they just lack your depth of wisdom and understanding?

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
You may now be tiring of the endless opposition to your plans and ideas. But has it occurred to you that there may be a great deal of good, sound commonsense in what other people have to say? And that is precisely why you must avoid confrontation today and tomorrow.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Mars is still challenging your sign, guaranteeing lively times, even though you will have to put up with other people's unhelpful or demanding behaviour. Be sure to reach a compromise if this is the only way to gain acceptance. You may be worried that someone is undermining your interests, but don't jump to conclusions.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
Like your fellow air signs, the Librans and Geminians, you are enjoying the benefits of a seemingly endless series of wonderful planetary influences. If events don't work out as planned, it is because you have seriously mishandled them. Make up for it now.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
An agreement on a major domestic matter is about to be reached. You may have cause to breathe a sigh of relief, although you must understand that you still have another two months to sort out the consequences. Why not make a determined effort to get on with colleagues and everyone in authority?

Rise in cases across state, cluster outbreaks have officials worried

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

WITH Covid-19 cases rising, clusters being reported and people moving about without following norms, Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike Commissioner N Manjunatha Prasad on Friday warned that the situation that was prevalent five months ago would come back if people don't take precautions.

A lockdown will be clamped down on the city again if the norms are not followed, he said, while talking to the media on the sidelines of a meeting with BBMP special commissioners, zonal commissioners and health officials to discuss the rise in cases and how to tackle them.

Prasad said the aim is to make Bengaluru disease free. People coming from places where cases are high, especially Maharashtra and Kerala, should be checked. "At the moment, we are focusing on testing everyone coming from Kerala. We are insisting that they carry a negative test report. If not, they must be in quarantine and we will check them. The technical advisory committee is holding a meeting with the State Government on how people coming from Maharashtra should be dealt with. Once the directions are given, we will act accordingly," he added.

He said that cases in Kerala are rising and 5,000-6,000 cases are being reported every day. In 21 districts of Maharashtra, many cases are being reported.

If cases continue to rise in Bengaluru, there will be no option but to go back to clamping restrictions as it was five months ago. Citizens must wear masks, maintain physical distancing and follow norms, he said.

Data collection for the second phase of the vaccination had started. Over 1,200 Asha workers have been given the task of conducting survey and collecting the data.

Around 20 lakh people in slums will be examined for blood pressure and blood sugar levels to ensure there is no discrepancy in data.

He said an app is being created to store data of those aged above 50 and people below 50 with comorbidities to be vaccinated under the second phase.

With Covid cases rising in Kerala and Maharashtra, experts have cautioned against a possible second wave, said Health Minister Dr K Sudhakar.

"I have written to officials from border districts and will have a video conference with them on Saturday. I have told them to be on high alert. People have become lax. The disease has not gone. It is only that the vaccine has arrived, but we still need to follow precautions," he said.

Man dies 10 days after taking Covid jab

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

On Friday, 39% of targeted beneficiaries were vaccinated, with a total coverage of 57% since the immunisation drive was launched on January 16 | EXPRESS

A 56-year-old valve man of the water works department from Chikkaballapur died on Friday afternoon, a day after he was discharged from Jayadeva Hospital where he was treated for a chest pain he developed after being given a Covid vaccine.

He received the first dose of the the vaccine on February 10, and was admitted to hospital after he developed chest pain. He was discharged on February 18, but developed chest pain again on Friday and died en route to hospital.

After examination, it was found that the deceased had aortic stenosis (narrowing of the aortic valve opening) and his sugar levels were 350, a health official. "He was unaware that he was diabetic. When he was sent to Jayadeva, they said his heart valve had a block and was scheduled to get a stent next week," the official said.

A detailed AEFI (adverse event following immunisation) investigation and committee meeting are awaited, the state health bulletin said.

Dr C N Manjunath, Director, Jayadeva Hospital and Cardiovascular Sciences, said, "It is unlikely that a vaccine causes a heart attack. This is a coincidental death, where the person must have had hypertension and suffered a heart attack. The gap between the vaccination and death is long, which shows it can't be because of the vaccination. However, we will study the case sheet of the person and conduct an in-depth check."

Other cases:

As on February 19, there were 18 AEFI cases, of which a handful were serious.

A 45-year-old anganwadi worker from Raichur vaccinated on January 20 developed pain in her lower limbs on January 27. On February 15, she developed fever, chills, abdominal pain and vomiting. She was later taken to NIMHANS.

A 40-year-old male valve man vaccinated in Mysuru on February 12 developed muscle twitches in the right lower limb. Authorities ruled out the role of the vaccine claiming that it was coincidental, and caused by undetected diabetes and thyroid issues. He is now recovering in hospital.

A 26-year-old female swab collector who got the jab on February 17 developed vomiting, dizziness in 30 minutes and was unconscious for 10 minutes. She was taken to ESI Rajajinagar, and has been discharged.

Testing to be ramped up after cluster cases

BENGALURU: Karnataka needs to increase Covid-19 testing, which has decreased in recent weeks, experts have said. On February 15, 42,245 tests were done across the state, 47,028 on February 16, 57,624 on February 17, and 59,635 on February 18. Testing in Bengaluru Urban, which was over 50,000 tests per day, has steadily halved to about 20,000-25,000. The state expert committee has written to the government, asking it to ensure one lakh samples are tested per day. as the number of cases are low, and also as a precaution since there have been cluster outbreaks. "We have told the government that we need to increase testing to trace cases early, especially since states like Maharashtra and Kerala are seeing a sudden rise in cases," said Dr Giridhara Babu, expert committee member.

Think out of the box, speed up vaccine drive, advise experts

CHETANA BELAGERE @Bengaluru

IMMUNISATION of health workers is progressing at a snail's pace, and at this rate, states will not be able to vaccinate even 1 per cent of the population within the stipulated time, experts said.

Union Health Ministry data shows that until the end of last week, three of every four eligible health workers had not taken their scheduled second dose of the vaccine.

Epidemiologist and member of the state's Covid Advisory Committee Dr Giridhara Babu tweeted on Friday that the Centre must consider "out of the box solutions" to speed up the vaccine drive.

"We need a walk-in vaccination process: anyone with a valid identity card should be allowed to self-register, authenticate age in a minute, get vaccinated, wait for an hour and go home," he added.

He told TNIE that the current system of pre-registration is a hindrance. Health staff worked hard when the number of Covid infections peaked and need rest. "Health workers need time to organise themselves and be efficient. Instead, the system is keeping them busy again 24/7 because of pre-registration and technical glitches on the CoWIN app," he said.

Experts pointed out that only about three million people are being vaccinated per day across the country. "It has the potential to vaccinate 10 million per day. Mission Indradhanush of the Health and Family Welfare Ministry had 1,19,430 sessions. Multiply it by 100 per session and we are close to 10 million per day. There are more than 10,000 auxiliary nurses and midwives, both regular and contractual. They routinely administer injections. If they give 100 shots a day, one million per day should not be an issue at all. 10,000 staff nurses are also available with the government and will add another million per day," Babu said.

Dr C N Manjunath, member of the Covid Technical Advisory Committee and director for Jayadeva Institute of Cardiovascular Sciences and Research, said the government should start roping in private facilities to augment the capacity to cover 7-10 million per day.

"Like testing was allowed to be done by the private sector, I think it is now time for the government to allow them to even vaccinate. Prices can be capped. Also, governments should coordinate with India Inc and other NGOs," he added.

Epidemiologists suggested vaccinating high-risk states and covering all elderly and those with comorbidities first. Dr Babu said this is being done in a phased manner with the MR vaccine campaign, with four to five states covered in each phase. Around 15-40 million children were covered in less than 40 days in each state, he said.

According to Dr Babu, a staggered approach based on the risk profile should be adopted. Around 1.25 crore elderly people could be covered in 10 days by pooling resources and walk-in sessions. "For the next two months there should be a nationwide survey to identify people with comorbidities and vaccinate them," he said.

Bommai slams PFI leader for temple remark

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru/Mangaluru

HOME Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Friday slammed a Popular Front of India (PFI) leader for his alleged provocative remarks against collecting funds for the construction of Ram Temple at Ayodhya.

"A case has been registered against the PFI leader for his anti-national remarks and hate speech. It it as an attempt to provoke people and disturb communal harmony. Our government will not tolerate such forces," he told reporters, responding to PFI leader Anis Ahmed's remarks asking people not to donate funds for the temple.

Bommai said the PFI leader had no moral right to talk about RSS and Ram Temple, which is being constructed as per the order of the Supreme Court.

"The PFI has joined hands with anti-national forces for money," he alleged. The hate speech is an attempt to divide people of this country.

Ahmed had made the allegations at an event in Ullal in Mangaluru.

Meanhiwle, Mangaluru city police have booked seven persons associated with PFI on charges of holding a protest march without permission and making "provocative speeches".

CABINET DISCUSSED QUOTA ISSUE AT LENGTH: CM

Opinions of ministers Nirani, C C Patil, Shettar, Savadi, Bommai elicited on demands of various communities

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

AS protesters from different communities have kept the reservation issue on the boil, Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa said these various demands are under the consideration of the government and that discussions are being held. "As rules and guidelines need to be followed, the demands for reservation are being examined," he added.

He revealed that the cabinet meeting on Thursday evening discussed the reservation issue at length. Opinions were sought from Lingayat Panchamsali ministers Murugesh Nirani and C C Patil and other Lingayat ministers Jagadish Shettar, Deputy Chief Minister Laxman Savadi and Home Minister Basavraj Bommai.

Over the last few weeks, the State Government is facing intense pressure from many communities, including Panchamsalis (Lingayats) seeking inclusion in backward 2A list, Kurubas demanding a change in the status from backward classes to Scheduled Tribe and Valmikis aiming for more reservation within the ST list.

Recently, Social Welfare Minister Sriramulu had said that the government is conducting an anthropological and genealogical study of the communities and that 26 districts have been covered.

Rural Development and Panchayat Raj Minister K S Eshwarappa, who has been leading the protest for ST status for Kurubas, has said that while the community is seeking the ST status, it will not eat into the 3 per cent quota for STs, but will seek an increase in the overall reservation.

Meanwhile, Prof Ravi Verma Kumar and Ashok Harnahalli, both of whom have served as Advocates General, said that the reservation issue has to be decided legally and not politically.

If Banajiga Lingayats could be included in the 2A category when Jagadish Shettar was chief minister, why cannot Panchamsalis be given the same status, asked Panchamsali seer Vachananda Swamiji. But former Backward Classes Commission chairman Dr C S Dwarakanath said, "2A is for those who engage in certain work skills. Banajiga Lingayats are not included in the category, but Balijas, who make garlands, are. The reservation is only for education purpose."

Hundreds of Kurubas protest in B'luru

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

HUNDREDS of members of Karnataka Pradesh Kurubara Sangha held a protest in front of the Gandhi statue near Maurya Circle on Friday, demanding the inclusion of the community in the Scheduled Tribe list.

The protesters demanded that once the anthropological and genealogical studies are done, they should be sent to the Central Government. They argued that Kurubas are already included in the ST list in Kodagu, Bidar, Kalaburagi and Yadgir districts.

They said that protests will continue till the government agrees to their demand. "RDPR Minister K S Eshwarappa is not pushing for ST status for Kurubas. He should pursue it before the Central Government," they said.

Hundreds of participants from different districts arrived in Bengaluru on Friday morning to take part in the protest, which was led by Kurubara Sangha president in-charge Subramanya D, former mayors Venkatesh Murthy M Ramachandrappa and J Huchappa, Sangha treasurer Devraj Subbarayappa, leaders Krishnamurthy, Rajendra Sanakki and others.

Panchamasalis to hold rally in city tomorrow

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Hubballi

FORMER minister P C Siddanagoudar said on Friday that over 10 lakh members of the Panchamasali community will take part in a rally in Bengaluru's Palace Grounds on February 21, demanding 2A OBC status.

He said that the demand is not new. "During his tenure as CM, BJP leader Jagadish Shettar constituted a committee under C M Udasi to consider the demand. The committee found our demand to be genuine and recommended reservation… but successive governments failed to act upon it," he added.

The demand for reservation is only for education and government jobs. "Technical and legal glitches surface only while including our sect in the 2A category," he said.

Meanwhile, leaders of Karnataka Rajya Parishishta Jati Misalati Hechhala Samiti have demanded that the percentage of reservation for Scheduled Castes be increased to 35% from the present 15% within 30 days. If not, they would launch an agitation, they warned.

Hire lawyers to fight cases, panchayats told

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @Bengaluru

TO avoid contempt of court cases and embarrassment to the government, the Rural Development and Panchayat Raj department has directed panchayat development officers from gram panchayats and CEOs of zilla and taluk panchayats to appoint advocates to look into cases related to their respective jurisdictions.

Petty cases at the panchayat level pending before lower courts are moving to higher courts as they are not represented by lawyers from panchayats. At higher courts, senior State Government officials are summoned, leaving the government embarrassed.

In a detailed circular, RDPR Principal Secretary Uma Mahadevan pointed out that under the Karnataka Gram Swaraj and Panchayat Raj Act, panchayats have a provision to hire advocates independently to fight any legal case or file writ petitions. However, transparency should be maintained while hiring advocates and they should be paid as per the guidelines issued by the Law Department. The lawyers have to be paid from panchayat funds, it stated.

Officials have to conduct workshops to sensitise officials on legal cases. Panchayat development officers and CEOs have to submit replies to courts through advocates and should do so on time. "If they fail to do it on time, or because of them the government faces contempt of court cases or embarrassment, action will be taken against such officials," Uma warned.

RDPR department sources said that many cases related to their department are pending before the High Court, Karnataka Administrative Tribunal, civil and other courts. Though panchayats have the provision to hire lawyers, may don't, resulting in cases going to higher courts, where senior State Government officials, including the principal secretary, have to appear, causing embarrassment.

"All these are small cases which can be resolved at the lower court if there is timely intervention. As there is no legal cell at RDPR, we are depending on outsourced advocates. If we don't hire them, we will be left embarrassed," sources said

Sindagi bypoll: JDS 'under pressure' for truck with BJP

MAHESH M GOUDAR @Vijayapura

Even as the bypoll to the Sindagi Assembly seat is yet to be announced, hectic political activities are on. JDS, which lost its sitting MLA M C Managuli to Covid recently, is under pressure to strike an alliance with the ruling BJP to retain the seat.

A week ago, JDS supremo H D Deve Gowda had announced that the party will not contest any bypoll as it is facing a dearth of funds. However, in a rally held at Raichur, party senior leader H D Kumaraswamy clarified that JDS will contest the election. Following this, Managuli's sons met higher-ups and insisted on holding talks with the BJP to brighten the prospects of winning the seat again. "Talks are already underway to fight the poll in alliance. We all the four brothers met our party leaders and expressed views about going along with BJP. I cannot reveal the purpose at this juncture. The decision is left to the high command," Ashok Managuli, who is also a chairman of a cooperative bank, told TNIE.

However local BJP leaders are averse to this idea. During the Assembly polls held in 2018, BJP candidate had finished second by losing with a margin of 10,000 votes. Congress had slipped to third place. Prior to that BJP had won the seat twice in a row in 2008 and 2013. Hence, the leaders here see a perfect opportunity to win back the seat in the forthcoming bypoll.

BJP district chief R S Patil Kuchabal told TNIE, "We lost the previous election here as Managuli succeeded in getting sympathy votes claiming to be his last election."

SIDDU PROMISES 10 KG FREE RICE IF VOTED TO POWER

Former chief minister Siddaramaiah inaugurates Beeralingeshwara Temple at Gandhanahalli village in KR Nagar of Mysuru district on Friday

K SHIVA KUMAR @Mysuru

SKYROCKETING fuel prices, inflation and cut in grants for welfare programmes have turned into handy tools for the Congress, as Leader of Opposition in the Assembly Siddaramaiah painted the BJP governments at the State and Centre as anti-people and urged voters to reject them in future elections.

Addressing a party workers' meet at Hunsur, near here, he listed out "failures" of the Yediyurappa government and called upon people to end the "misrule in Karnataka".

He set the tone for the ensuing zilla and taluk panchayat elections, claiming that the Congress will return to power in the State in 2023. "We will come back to power ... 100 per cent ... there is no doubt," the former chief minister added.

Claiming that the BJP government headed by Yediyurappa has failed on all fronts, he urged people to reject the BJP in elections and not get carried away by the lies of the JDS.

Announcing that Congress will provide 10 kg rice to BPL families once it returns to power, he criticised the BJP government for reducing the quantity from 7 to 5 kg. Now, it is said that it will be further reduced to 3 kg, he added.

Urging people to take to streets against the ration cut and steep hike in fuel prices, he slammed the government for ending shadi bhagya, shoe bhagya and Vidyasiri, the programmes launched by his government.

He said that the Yediyurappa government has failed to waive off farms loans as assured by the BJP in its election manifesto or give fresh loans to farmers. Housing projects for the poor have suffered as the government has not released funds. On the contrary, the previous Congress government built more than 15 lakhs houses, he added.

He said the Congress government fulfilled all the 165 assurances made in its manifesto and also introduced 20 more programmes, including Indira Canteen for the poor. "What can we expect from a government that has not paid scholarships to students and not provided food to hostel students during the pandemic," he asked.

Ex-CM, DKS to take out padayatra

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Udupi

FORMER CM Siddaramaiah and KPCC president D K Shivakumar will take out a six-day "Janadhwani" padayatra in Udupi district (from Hejamady to Shiroor) from February 22, highlighting the "anti-people policies" of the Centre, including the "demerits of new farm laws".

District Congress unit president Ashok Kumar Kodavoor told reporters on Friday that several policies of the Centre, including amendments to the APMC Act and Labour Act and skyrocketing prices of petrol and cement, are against the interest of people.

The padayatra, covering 108 km, will create awareness on the "anti-people policies" of the Centre, he said. Party leaders U T Khader, Abhaychandra Jain, Vinay Kumar Sorake, Pramod Madhwaraj, Mithun Rai, and Gopal Poojari will be part of the padayatra.

"The Centre is promoting privatisation. This shows the government is not capable of managing these institutions. Several people have lost their jobs. People are realising that this government they voted for is not working in their favour," he added.

JUMBO PROBLEM

Smart elephants smash through rail barricades, stump forest officials

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

TALL claims of experts and forest department officials that rail barricades will help control the man-elephant menace have now been busted.

In the last one week, elephants in three different locations of Nagarhole Tiger Reserve (NTR) have crashed through and uprooted rail barricades to make their way into nearby villages, forcing the forest department to look at other ways to control the conflict and even re-think whether rail barricades are ideal in mitigating the elephant menace.

Rail barricades broken by elephants at Veeranahosahalli range

The latest incident was reported on Friday at Veeranahosahalli range, where a tusker broke the rails. The earlier two incidents were from Kollavige and Mudugunur villages. "Normally, we used to see elephants squeezing their way through or climbing over the rails. But now they have broken the barricades and entered the villages, destroying crops and properties. Elephants have managed to identify weak spots in the rails and bumped into them repeatedly to break out," NTR Director D Mahesh Kumar told TNIE.

Now as a trial, NTR is electrifying the rail barricade with solar power on a 7 km stretch at Antharsanthe and DB Kuppe to see whether it is effective.

The latest incidents have forced the forest department to keep its plan on hold to erect rails at forest patches, including Bhadra and Kali tiger reserves. The officials will also inspect the already erected rails. "The rails were introduced 8-9 years ago and so far, their condition has not been assessed. In some places, they have corroded and in others, they are bent because of the force used by elephants. In some other spots, elephants have widened the gap between two barricades and made their way," said a senior forest official.

Till now, all the methods employed by forest officials to control the movement of elephants have been futile. They have tried elephant-proof trenches, chilli fences, solar fencing (horizontal, hanging and double tentacled) and alarm system. "Elephants have outsmarted everything. This proves that elephant corridors need to be strengthened to ensure conflicts are reduced," said an expert.

HC gives job back to woman sacked over maternity leave

Orders state government to suitably compensate petitioner

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

Sought leave on June 11, terminated on Aug 29, '19

Rajeshwari was appointed by the DMA as Project Information Officer/MIS Expert on contract basis for a consolidated pay with effect from November 27, 2009. The contract was being renewed annually. She sought maternity leave through an application dated June 11, 2019. Within 15 days of receipt of application, the DMA issued notice directing her to report to duties forthwith. When she did not report back to duties, an order was passed on August 29, 2019 terminating her from the service on the ground that she had remained absent.

COMING to the rescue of a woman contract employee, whose services were terminated as she had sought maternity leave, which was not available for such employees, the Karnataka High Court has directed the State Government to reinstate her.

"I chose motherhood; the State chose to terminate me", was the plea of the petitioner BS Rajeshwari (35) from RPC Layout in the city. "The pendulum of her fate swung from the buoyancy of hope to the fatigue of despair as she was terminated on the ground that she opted to become a mother and had sought maternity leave," Justice M Nagaprasanna observed.

Terming the act of the Directorate of Municipal Administration (DMA) as appalling and insensitive to the issue, Justice Nagaprasanna directed the government to reinstate Rajeshwari to the post that she held earlier with 50 per cent back wages from the date of cancellation of appointment till the date of reinstatement, and cost of Rs 25,000 payable to her.

Quashing the order cancelling the contract, the court said that the state should pay costs to the petitioner and recover it from the officer who passed the order terminating her service, in accordance with law.

The Government Advocate vehemently argued before the court that the contract itself gave a right to to terminate her services at any point in time. Then the court observed that the action of the DMA cannot be countenanced, as maternity or the Maternity Benefit (Amendment) Act, 2017 does not classify or qualify a mother to be a government servant, temporary employee, employee on contract basis or an employee on daily wages.

Accordingly, in terms of this Act and the judgement of Apex Court, the petitioner was entitled to maternity leave for six months, the court added.

DJ Halli riots: Panel receives only 3 applications

Justice H S Kempanna in Bengaluru on Friday | ASHISHKRISHNA HP

JUSTICE H S Kempanna, former judge of the Karnataka High Court and Claims Commissioner for assessing the damage caused to public and private property during the DJ Halli and KG Halli riots on August 11 last year, has appealed to the public to come forward and file damage claim applications. The commission has received only three such applications so far.

Justice Kempanna told reporters here on Friday that despite giving advertisements in newspapers and distributing handbills to the residents of the affected areas, the commission has received very few applications. "All the three are related to damage of vehicles belonging to private persons," he added.

"Though the last date for receiving applications is February 28, we may extend it as we have received only a few applications and the commission has been set up for the benefit of the public," he said.

He said that the government will submit an application after a detailed assessment of loss caused to government property during the riots. "Many police personnel have also lost their personal vehicles and they have to submit applications in personal capacity," Justice Kempanna added.

He said the commission was working with a staff of 17 at the moment, but will need assessors after it stops receiving applications. "We have already visited the spot once and will have to visit again after receiving all applications. Those who have already evaluated the loss through an authorised assessor may attach the relevant documents while applying," he informed.

He said that the office of the commission will submit the applications after assessment to the court, which will decide the compensation to be given to the claimant.

TN to drop Covid violation cases

Government has dropped complaints against anti-CAA protestors too, says EPS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Tenkasi

CHIEF Minister Edappadi K Palaniswami, on Friday, said that the State government has dropped almost all cases against those who violated lockdown rules and those who participated in anti-CAA protests.

Addressing AIADMK cadre at an election campaign in Kadayanallur, Palaniswami said around 10 lakh cases were registered by the police under the Tamil Nadu Public Health Act and Epidemic Diseases Act against the violators. “To implement the lockdown rules, the police personnel had established check posts across the State. Cases were registered against those who violated the lockdown rules and those who spread rumours. Except those who were connected to fake e-passes and those who prevented police from discharging their duty, all others will be relieved of the cases,” he said.

The chief minister also said that his government has dropped the cases against those who protested against Citizenship (Amendment) Act (CAA). “The CAA was introduced and passed in the Parliament in 2019. Opposing the Act, many conducted rallies and burned the copies of CAA. The Tamil Nadu police had registered around 1,500 cases against the protesters. The government has dropped all cases except the ones that were registered for certain crimes such as preventing the police from doing their duty,” he added.

Palaniswami also said his government would consider withdrawing the cases against those who protested against Kudankulam Nuclear Power Project.

Realise ‘shared vision’ of devpt, Modi tells Kerala

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ T’Puram

PRIME Minster Narendra Modi said the NDA government stands for development without discrimination and urged the people of Kerala to realise the “shared vision of togetherness and development”. Modi’s words assume significance in a poll-bound state that has witnessed numerous controversies over claiming credit for development projects jointly implemented by the Centre and the state.

“Development is our aim, development is our religion,” Modi underscored, while inaugurating three projects in the state and laying the foundation stone for two more.

The projects inaugurated by Modi on Friday include a 2,000 MW power transmission project from Pugalur to Thrissur; a solar power project of 50 MW capacity at Kasaragod and a 75MLD water treatment plant at Aruvikkara. He also laid the foundation stone for a smart road in Thiruvanathapuram and an integrated Command and Control Centre, also in the state capital. Quoting Kumaran Asan’s poem, Modi said development and good governance does not differentiate between caste, creed, race, gender, religion or language. “Development is for everyone. This is the essence of sabka saath, sabka vikas, sabka vishwas (everyone’s support, everyone’s development and everyone’s trust),” he said.

Stressing the importance the country gives to solar energy, Modi said work is under way to connect farmers of the country with the solar power sector. “Our aim is to make our ‘annadatas’ (providers of food) also ‘oorja daatas’ (providers of energy),” he said.

Ready to be Kerala CM if BJP wins, says Sreedharan

New Delhi: Set to enter the political fray by joining the BJP next week, technocrat E Sreedharan on Friday said his main aim is to help the party come to power in Kerala and that he will be open to chief ministership. He also said that the focus will be on developing infrastructure in a big way and bring the state out of the debt trap if the BJP wins the assembly polls that are likely to be held in April-May this year. Known as ‘Metroman’ as well as for the efficiency in completing big infrastructure projects, Sreedharan told media persons that he will contest the assembly elections if the party wants and will also be open to chief ministership if the party asks. The 88-year-old technocrat also made it clear that he will not be interested in governorship, saying that it is purely a “constitutional position and no powers at all” and that he won't be able to make any positive contribution to the state being in such a position.

Bengaluru lawyers meet Home Minister

“AS a lawyer I was expecting such a court ruling. I, however, appreciate the urgency shown in getting her bail plea listed for hearing tomorrow,” Disha’s family friend and advocate R Prasanna added.

Advocate Vinay Sreenivasa called Disha’s arrest “illegal” and stated that it is a “pity that someone is arrested and placed in custody for a crime which has not been committed. The Delhi police FIR has invoked Section 124A of the Indian Penal Code for sedition (against the accused). For sedition, there has to be a call for violence. Where was the call for violence?” questioned Vinay.

“On the other hand, the irregularities committed by the state in violation of the Constitution and the Criminal Procedure Code are glaring. The Delhi police illegally took Disha and there is no action against them? Instead, a young woman, who has committed no crime is again ordered to be in the custody of the state,” said Vinay.

“Disha’s arrest shows a certain lack of political judgement as there doesn’t seem to be any record of seditious activities,” felt Supriya Roy Chowdhury, Visiting Professor, National Institute of Advanced Studies (NIAS). She added that most young activists are “very serious about their ideas, ideals and their work. Their activism remains issue-based. Rarely, such activists are connected to larger political outfits or agendas. Most also remain self-consciously distanced from political parties,” she added.

Meanwhile, a delegation comprising representatives from Karnataka Rajya Raitha Sangha, Nammoora Bhoomi Namagirali, People’s Union for Civil Liberties, All India Students Association, All India Progressive Women’s Association, All India United Trade Union Centre, Campaign Against Hate Speech and also concerned advocates met Home Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Friday to share their concerns regarding Disha’s arrest. “We have also sought directions from him regarding our demand that the Bengaluru City Police should register an FIR against Haryana minister Anil Vij for his hate tweet,” said Vinay.

The Union Government is organising a special awareness drive in the first week of March across the country. Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Sadananda Gowda will also interact virtually with chemists and druggists of these Kendras.

Gowda insisted that doctors should advise patients to buy medicines from Jan Aushadi Kendras at affordable prices. As per a Union Government survey, 15-20 per cent of monthly household income is spent on medical expenditure.

“In order to provide quality medicines at lesser cost, the government started Jan Aushadi Kendras. All these medicines are checked before procurement,” he added.

Villages in Kodagu swathed in white after sudden hailstorm

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Madikeri

IT was a surreal experience for many in parts of Kodagu district on Friday. A sudden, heavy hailstorm, lasting over half an hour, left several villages across Shanivarsanthe wearing a snow-capped look. While youngsters in the villages frolicked with chunks of ice, the farmers were worried about crop losses.

Villages including Nidtha, Mulluru, Gudugalale, Ankanahalli and Dundalli in Shanivarsanthe hobli were swathed in about 1.5 inches of white. Many students of Mulluru Government Primary School had their first experience with a hailstorm. “Hailstones had collected on a tarpaulin we had put up outside the classrooms for conducting classes. All the students brought buckets and collected ice chunks. It was a unique experience for them,” explained Satish, a teacher at the school.

“I have not witnessed such a hailstorm in the last 45 years of stay at Shanivarsanthe,” said M P Mohanraj, an agriculturalist. He grows pepper, coffee, orange and lemon and expressed concern that this was not good news. “Such rains are always disastrous for farmers and growers. Following the coffee picking season, the coffee plants have to dry till March. On March 31, the farmer’s much sought-after rain - the ‘rathi’ rain - enables blossoming of the crops. This hailstorm will damage the crops and will affect the next year’s crop,” he felt.

Meanwhile, the India Meteorological Department (IMD) officials in Bengaluru were surprised on learning about hailstorms in Kodagu and Chikkamagaluru during this time of the year. The IMD-Bengaluru, Director in-charge, Geeta Agnihotri, told TNIE that thunder and lightning, coupled with light rainfall, was the forecast following the formation of the easterly system.

“There was no forecast of a hailstorm. It has come as a shock. The conditions were also not favourable for it to occur as there was no rise in temperature and sufficient moisture in the air,” she explained. She added that they have been getting inputs from across districts about hailstones and damage that have occurred. The IMD has forecast rainfall and thunder showers for the next three days.

As per the IMD, Bengaluru received 5.7 mm rainfall and HAL airport recorded 5.8 mm rainfall till 8.30 pm on Friday. Most parts of Karnataka received rainfall because of a trough over north Kerala to south Gujarat coast. The rainfall and dip in temperature is also because of easterly winds, explained an official.

Heavy rains lashed Chitradurga district on Thursday and Friday, inundating low-lying areas. Several parts of Chikkamagaluru district also received moderate rainfall on Friday. A 20-year-old youth died after he was struck by lightning at Nidgal village in Khanapur talluk on Wednesday evening.

After four days, a complaint was finally registered on Friday and investigation has been taken up.

Hosuramma, has lost her life’s savings of Rs 2 lakh, which was allegedly withdrawn from her bank account by relatives over a period time without her consent.

She learned about the fraud when she visited the bank last month. When she went to the police station to file a complaint, the police allegedly refused to include the names of influential people.

For the last four days, Hosuramma and grandaughter-Swarooparani have been sitting in front of the station in protest.

A senior police officer from Hosapete, however, claimed there was no delay in registering the complaint and investigation is under way.

Bhadravathi robber gang strikes at KSR railway station, nabbed

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

A gang of eight, including three women, of the Bhadravathi gang were nabbed at KSR railway station this week when they were attempting to rob passengers. Around 76.6 gm gold worth around ₹3.5 lakh, was recovered from them.

Three women were nabbed on board the Karwar Express on February 13 while the men were caught after a hot chase on the Gol Gumbaz Express on February 14, said Senior Divisional Security Commissioner, Railway Protection Force, Debashmita Chattopadhyay Banerjee.

The gang hails from Shivamogga district and is known for robbing train passengers, stealing luggage. They were arrested by an Anti-Passenger Offences squad comprising cops from Government Railway Police and Railway Protection Force.

The gang visits a different railway station in South Western Railways every three months, commits the offence and gets back to their home town.

The cop said the gang robbed gold of passengers in a train at KSR station on February 8, and targeted passengers who kept jewellery in their luggage.

Following complaints, the special squad was put in place, she added. “The women were nabbed when they were on board the Karwar Express as the cops in civilian clothes already had their pictures and were on the look out for them at KSR station. They confessed that six of their accomplices were planning to commit thefts on Gol Gumbaz Express the next day,” Banerjee said.

The cops got on board the train at KSR railway station on February 14. “A major chase took place inside the train with one of the gang managing to escape. Five were nabbed after a hot chase with them running through the train and jumping on either side of the train,” she explained. A total of 17 gm were recovered from their person.

The gang allegedly said they sold the jewellery to Manjunatha Jewellers in Bhadravathi from whom 59.6 grams of gold was recovered.

Downside of ruling could be reduced work hours for drivers: Forum chief

FOLLOWING this, on the request of the association, the Karnataka government formed a committee with then labour minister Suresh Kumar as its head. Many suggestions were given, but nothing moved forward. “The state government passed the buck to the Centre. We will press them again in the wake of the UK ruling,” Tanveer Pasha added.

Uber does not want to change its contract policy so as to avoid labour laws, and the government appears to be protecting the company’s interests, he alleged.

P Anbazhagan, president of the Tamil Nadu Call Taxi Drivers and Owners Association, revealed that since the last seven days both Ola and Uber had stopped deducting trip cancellation fees of ₹50 from drivers.

“I don’t know if this was the fallout of the UK case. Anyway, we are forced to work for at least 12 hours to meet our needs. We have been insisting that the cab aggregator fee should be reduced to 10% from the existing 24 to 28%,” he said.

The downside could be reducing work hours for drivers to, say, eight hours a day, as it will not help them meet their financial needs, said J Ramanujam, president of Thozhargal Car Ottunargal Amaippu Sara Thozhir Sangam in Tamil Nadu, adding about 80% of call taxis are purchased through loans from bank or money lenders. “Till March last year, drivers worked for 12-13 hours a day and their daily earning stood at ₹3,000-3,500. Of that, ₹1,500 went towards fuel and maintenance and ₹1,000 for rental,” he pointed out.

Drivers in tier-II cities like Bhubaneswar, too, welcomed the ruling. “Since we struggle to earn our livelihood, classifying us as workers will certainly help get an assured income apart from other benefits, including EPF,” said Kailash, an Uber driver in Bhubaneswar.

Another variable is the oversupply of cabs in the market. Treating drivers as employees could result in a correction, leading to a drop in the number of cabs on the road.

While this year’s Union Budget recognised gig and platform workers and promised to bring them under the social security cover, Shaik Salauddin, national general secretary of the Indian Federation of App-Based Transport Workers (IFAT), said, “The main issue is that we are routinely shunted between three departments - transport, labour and IT - if we go to them with a grievance.”

The Hyderabad-based Salauddin said there was still confusion whether social security benefits will be extended to app-based workers through a welfare board and what the contribution of the aggregators would be to the fund.

PRIVATISING TWO GOVT BANKS REALISTIC, BUT PREPARE GROUND FIRST

The government has decided to sell two state-run banks next fiscal, but the privatisation proposal itself is no spring chicken. It's been briefed out earlier, yet each time it sounds like a fresh economic miracle for a long-pending problem. From 27, we now have a dozen Public Sector Banks (PSBs) but even that's an excess. Privatisation ensures robustness in India's banking system and expands capacity with increased credit and liquidity. In 2019, when 13 PSBs were merged, six were purposefully left out of the pre-blitz banking consolidation drive. Now, the move to shortlist two PSBs seems realistic, but first the government must shore up intestinal fortitude in passing legislative amendments for privatisation to take off.

Foremost among them is amending the Banking Companies (Acquisition and Transfer of Undertakings) Act, 1970, and the Banking Companies (Acquisition and Transfer of Undertakings) Act, 1980. This needs strong political will. Separately, long-pending banking reforms must be implemented as PSBs operate under dual control of the RBI and Ministry of Finance—the RBI Act, 1934, and the Banking Regulation Act, 1949. This must change as the RBI lacks total control of PSBs unlike private peers, where it can revoke a banking licence, merge, shut down or penalise a bank board. Besides, the RBI must strengthen enforcement and supervision to avoid troublesome episodes seen at top private banks including ICICI, Axis and Yes Bank. Lastly, it's about time the PJ Nayak Committee recommendations to improve PSBs' governance and management are executed.

All six banks have sizeable bad loans, so it's essential to breathe life into the proposed bad bank concept. Else, no investor would be willing to bet his bottom dollar with toxic assets on the books. Further, the emphasis on a speedy resolution of NPAs through Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code should find its lost vigour. Lastly, trade unions will object to it, so the government needs to find a workaround. In essence, multiple moving parts must be coaligned, else all attempts towards bank privatisation will be akin to running faster to stay at the same place.

ANGER OF THE JOBLESS IN KERALA

A government job is a prize catch, especially in Kerala, which has one of the highest unemployment rates among states. That's the reason why hundreds of angry job aspirants have hit the streets, protesting against backdoor appointments and regularisation of contractual employees in various government departments, boards, PSUs and quasi-government bodies. While aspirants for last-grade servant posts have been on a protest in front of the state secretariat in Thiruvananthapuram for the last three weeks, similar agitations are being held elsewhere too, with opposition parties proactively fueling the anger. With Assembly polls around the corner, the protest by job aspirants is a new challenge that the Pinarayi Vijayan government must deal with quickly and effectively.

Unemployment is a growing concern in Kerala. While the Periodic Labour Force Survey for the first quarter of 2020 estimated joblessness among youth between 15 and 29 years of age in the state at 40.5%, nearly double the national average of 21%, the Economic Review 2020, tabled by FM Thomas Isaac in the Assembly, put the unemployment rate among the general population at 9% (2018-19), significantly higher than the national figure of 5.8%. This being the scenario, the informal methods of making appointments followed by successive governments, mostly as a way to dish out favours, have undermined the regular systems in place.

Consider this: As many as 46,285 candidates made it to the public service commission's 2018 rank list for last-grade servant posts, but only 5,524 have been given jobs so far and the validity of the rank list will end soon. In response to the protests, the Left Front government halted the regularisation of temporary staff, but promised to continue the process if it returns to power. It's essential that the available jobs go to the deserving and the government is duty-bound to ensure that. Favouritism and political considerations in appointments deprive the eligible candidates of opportunities. The concerns of the protesting job aspirants are genuine and their anger is justified. The government can afford to ignore them at its peril.

Barring geographic proximity, the regions going to polls have completely different political cultures. Do we have a common strand here at all?

WILL YOU VOTE FOR AN ASSEMBLY OF ASSEMBLIES?

And so another clutch of elections is upon us. Even if that elicits a sigh of fatigue from you—yes, elections do seem to come more frequently than T20 cricket series—there's a wealth of potentially historic moments on offer, and plenty of interesting analogies and dissonances, that promise to make this a riveting affair.

A new flag atop Red Fort? Well, Bengal already saw that a decade ago. But now another dye is getting mixed in the vat. There are stirrings on Kerala's rainbow palette too.... We have an electoral history with an embarrassment of riches in terms of epoch-making events. But one way or the other, the Spring-Summer Collection of 2021 may also throw in its hat for its share of fame.

Look at them first. Five states. Tamil Nadu and Kerala are adjacent to each other, and arguably closer to each other ethno-linguistically than they are to any other. And yet, barring geographic proximity and other forms of contiguity, they have little in common in terms of electoral politics—or indeed, political culture. Tiny Puducherry, already going through some pre-poll convulsions, has a few overlaps with Tamil Nadu. But that's about it.

Veer across the map. West Bengal and Assam too are neighbours—but it's a troubled proximity, a space where political values can get inverted across a chicken's neck corridor. That history produces a few overarching issues, like questions of ethnicity, especially in the shape of CAA-NRC. But that's been safely put away, with promises of being opened up 'only after the polls' or 'only after vaccination'. Barring the appearance of phrases related to that controversy, the two states are going to polls in wholly different contexts.

Do we have a common strand here at all? Yes. On two related fronts. One is at the level of the actual contests. One way or the other, in varying degrees of potency, the BJP is a factor in all of these elections.

In Assam, it seeks to hold on to a newly acquired regional promontory. In Bengal, perhaps the most riveting and volatile contest, it deigns to breach what was traditionally a no-fly zone for saffron—it would be nothing short of historic if the old Left bastion slips from the hand of its current leaseholder, Mamata Banerjee, a stormy petrel with her own nativist rhetoric. Tamil Nadu politics is by now decidedly saffron-flavoured, even if by proxy.

The obverse part of the coin is a familiar story too: the waning of the Congress, a natural corollary of the BJP's rise. The voluble V Narayanasamy of Puducherry is not yet (... what's the French phrase, ah yes...) hors de combat, but the horoscope is murky. The much keener test for the GOP will come in Kerala, a state where it has retained some of its vitality but where it now makes a wobbly triangle along with an upbeat BJP and a tenacious Pinarayi. The bipolar pendulum politics of old is dead. If that triangle happens to tilt back towards the Left, it would be a loss of face. And maybe loss of blood too—rumour is afoot of some stalwarts jumping ship to the BJP. True or not, that's the condition the party has brought itself to.

But flowing from this scenario, there may be a deeper current, going unnoticed right now. Yes, it's only in India that, along with language, culture and food, politics also changes with inter-state boundaries—giving us an eclectic collection that goes on to form an unwieldy whole. But with saffron colouring India's landscape everywhere, that idea of a 'whole' may be getting closer to an institutional sanctification of another sort.

Karnataka may end up offering itself as a willing guinea pig in this experiment on the 'one nation, one election' policy ... Will that begin something that genetically alters Indian democracy?

How? Well, the Karnataka Assembly is not up for polls, but it has called a special session that may offer you a clue. Pandemic, a faltering economy, farm crisis ... there's no dearth of topics to be 'seized with'. But the Yediyurappa regime has chosen to call this session to debate the idea of 'one nation, one election' , along with the state Budget. Karnataka may end up offering itself as a willing guinea pig in this experiment in democracy, after pondering the legal and logistical hurdles.

Will that begin something that genetically alters Indian democracy? Maybe not so fast, but the appeal to an underlying demotic psychology will surely be made. Despite the disparate political narrative each state has thrown up in the last 70 years, the idea of having simultaneous elections to India's state Assemblies and the Lok Sabha will be offered as an answer to a deep urge to go back to a pre-Babel unity, to reclaim some kind of uniformity of purpose. It would be a perfect addition to the BJP's vocabulary of nationalism, taking it beyond religion, at least nominally.

Would that be good for India? For its people? For its grand experiment in democracy that made it a pioneer in the world? Wasn't that about the cohabitation of many, made as harmonious as possible, rather than the rainbow being turned into one colour? Anyway, those who do identity politics to affirm difference may soon have occasion to mull over the root meaning of 'identity'—deriving from the Latin idem, "the same".

Will these then be a set of Assembly elections to end all Assembly elections? Of course not. India is nothing if not the name of a space for debate. For now, hunker down in your seats to soak in the local frenzy, the quarrels over constituencies, the spectacle of arrivals and departures ... even if the end result points to a coming centripetal moment in Indian politics. For, while the streets attempt to tell another story, the formal political realm may be drawing a circle around us.

SAMUDRA MANTHAN OF THE INDIAN ECONOMY

HINDOL SENGUPTA

VP & Head of Research at Invest India, GoI's national investment promotion agency

You can see it on the streets—India is back at work. Traffic jams are back, as is the jostling in the markets. In Delhi, where I live, at least, that familiar feeling of wanting to wear a mask (not to protect ourselves from Covid-19, but more to shield us from vehicle fumes) is back. Oddly, this time, that feels reassuring.

The financial services group Nomura has noted that economic activity in the country is almost back at pre-Covid-19 levels. Ratings firm S&P has predicted a 10% growth during the year beginning 1 April 2021. Double digit growth, of course, is what the Economic Survey too predicted for next year.

The question now to ask is not merely by how much things like offtake of power, Goods and Services Tax collections, sale of vehicles (two-wheelers, especially) grow, and in what time, but what India's next phase of growth would look like.

There is little doubt, in my mind at least, that if 2014 was a pivot in India's growth trajectory after 1991, a new era begins now, after the pandemic. Since 2014, the Indian economy has been undergoing a spring cleaning—in some places I have referred to this as the Samudra Mathan of the economy—where a lot of effort has gone in fixing the very basic parameters of growth. Arteries choked with many a bad regulation have been scrapped clean. Runaway sectors like real estate have been bound to better regulation; they have now seen some marquee companies enter the space, replacing others who played by the jungle rules of the past. The nature of interface between the state and the citizen has, in some ways, undergone a drastic change (and is changing further every day) due to digital technologies.

With Covid-19, India has shown that not only can it handle a pandemic well, but also manufacture lifesaving drugs and vaccines for the world. The post-Covid era, which is now beginning, offers an opportunity to rethink the very parameters and dimensions of what growth means in the country.

So how would this phase be different—indeed, how could it be?

First, the growth trajectory since 1991 was a tide that lifted millions of boats, but it was fundamentally a top-down model of growth. We now know that while trickle-down prosperity might work in some areas, it also leaves itself open to criticism that it is too much for the too few.

India now has, in this phase, an opportunity to seed growth at the very grassroots. Digital technology is allowing the smallest of enterprises access to and benefit from a countrywide, and even global, customer base.

Economic indicators suggest growth is returning strongly in India. The question now is what to do with this new upcoming era of growth ... To understand what the biggest problem was of the post-1991 growth phase, you need to understand how important the idea of access is in India. While liberalisation made us more egalitarian, it did not make us equitable enough because many of the institutions at the very top of the food chain remained intact

But in order to succeed, millions need more than just a digital buying and selling interface. Therefore, the focus on better nutrition (monitored often in rural areas by anganwadis with mobile phones loaded with nutrition monitoring software) and the emphasis on building roads to the remotest of places is not just about connectivity, but about access to a mindset of enterprise.

To understand what the biggest problem was of the post-1991 growth phase, you need to understand how important the idea of access is in India. The curation of access, and its restrictions, has been made into almost an art form in the country. While liberalisation made us more egalitarian, it did not make us equitable enough because many of the institutions at the very top of the food chain remained intact. How could it be when the very tools of our society, from identification to access, remained redolent with privilege?

It is only by demolishing that very edifice of access denial that real democracy and opportunity can percolate to the grassroots. To achieve this, there must be a tangible sense of access, a sense that in very material terms—through the use of the same road, or the same speed internet connection, the same identification tool or the same study material, the same regulations and the application of laws—things are uniform.

What Indian society needs the most, perhaps, is demonstrable egalitarianism. An enforced everyday sense that citizens in a democracy have the same rights by law—in both letter, and spirit. And violations, no matter by who, brings forth the same punitive measures.

Samudra Manthan is a process when the devas and the asuras churned the ocean to reveal the nectar of life, amrit. This, then, should be the nectar, the amrit, that emerges from our churning times, a growth that begins from below rather than from the top, and which triggers a sense of egalitarianism in our society.

Possibility of second wave

The reimposition of the lockdown in parts of Maharashtra due to a resurgence of Covid cases is a warning of a possible second wave of the pandemic in other regions of the nation as well. This is alarming, especially for Kerala, where people are increasingly specialising in protesting in large numbers without wearing masks properly or following safety protocol.

Special visas a great idea

Prime Minister Narendra Modi's philanthropic gesture in suggesting the creation of special visas for doctors and nurses in our neighbourhood to meet the current health emergency is wonderful. What is now needed at this crucial hour is well-knit regional cooperation among these nations to accelerate the proposal.

Metroman's interview

Metroman E Sreedharan is set to join the BJP. He was quite frank in his interview to this newspaper when he noted that PM Modi is one of the best country heads the world has ever seen. He said Modi has done well in the development front all over the nation without the evil of graft.

K R Parvathy, Mysuru

Bad move from good man?

The Metroman's entry into politics seems strange. He is 88 years old and has a clean image. It would have been more ideal for him to remain that way. Now that he has thrown his hat into the whirlpool of Indian politics, the BJP, like any other party, would use his name for good publicity. But his personal image will certainly take a beating. There will be people who would view this as a bad move from a good man.

Ramp up R&D activities

This is with reference to Support to making telecom products good in the short run (Feb 19). The editorial rightly stressed on the significance of ramping up R&D activities through enhanced spending as an essential part of the Make in India campaign. Research is important to drive out obsolescence and keep sophistication in place.

Think before you speak

This is with reference to Tripura CM's remark only helps anti-India groups (Feb 19). Entangled between two adversarial nations in the East and West, our PM had carefully understood that only symbiotic relations with our other neighbours could help India prosper. However, some motormouths seem to be spoiling these plans. It is high time politicos understand the gravity of our geopolitical challenges.

Not beneficial for Cong

This is with reference to Curious timing of Kiran Bedi's exit (Feb 19). The Congress rejoicing in the removal of Lt Governor Kiran Bedi, who had been a thorn in their flesh from the beginning, is only transient as the appointment of Tamizhisai Soundararajan, former BJP chief of Tamil Nadu, would in no way change the GOP's election prospects.

Dharmarajan A K, Thalassery

Timing is not right

From the beginning, there was a persistent tug-of-war between the Puducherry government and Bedi. But her interference was due to alleged corruption and inept administration, while the ruling regime blamed her as a stumbling block for the implementation of welfare schemes. But now, her sudden removal just a few months before the elections is not convincing to the people.

Let case reach logical end

The Supreme Court says the possibility of a conspiracy behind the sexual harassment allegations against former CJI Ranjan Gogoi can't be ruled out. Yet, it has decided to close the case against him. If there is a possibility of a conspiracy, shouldn't the case be allowed to reach a logical conclusion? The reasons given by the SC don't add up.

Kurian Mathew, Kochi

What about our players?

The IPL was touted as an opportunity for young and upcoming domestic players to prove their worth in the limited overs format. But in the auction on Thursday, franchises were overly keen on splurging on foreign players, even those that had been dumped by their erstwhile owners due to poor performance. Many Indian players who had quoted the minimum price (₹20 lakh) went unsold.

Disengagement welcome, but there remain points along the border where army can't afford to let its guard down

MAYANK SINGH @New Delhi

Part of the area that has caused the recent India-China stand-off | SPL ARRANGEMENT

AT a time when disengagement of PLA and Indian Army along the Pangong Tso is complete, former army officers advised caution instead of trusting blindly agreements with China. These officers believe China has pushed in a lot of force and equipment to convey a message and the trickier phase begins now, as India has to handle negotiations with maturity and pragmatism.

Lt Gen HS Panag (Retd), a former Northern Army Commander, said China is forcing others to accept it is the domineering power in Asia. Also, because they felt threatened by the development of infrastructure on the Indian side, they may plan action from the Aksai Chin side. "By developing the Darbuk-Shyok-Daulat Beg Oldi (DSDBO) highway, we were building lateral routes towards the LAC," said Lt Gen Panag.

Adding that the Chinese were farsighted in persisting with the 1959 claim line, as it keeps them in an advantageous position, Lt Gen Panag said: "They chose the LAC in such a way that their positions are at the points of advantage and can dominate in future."

The PLA has denied India access to the patrolling points in Y Junction in Depsang. It has also blocked additional movement towards Hot Spring. Lt Gen DS Hooda (Retd), another former Northern Army Commander, identifies Depsang as the trickiest point. "Both sides have their claims in this area and this will take a lot of negotiations."

Sub Sector North, of which Depsang is a part, is strategically most important. The terrain is such that large scale armour operations is possible. China has multiple roads feeding this area while India has only the DSDBO road. By sitting at the Y Junction, China can obstruct India's movement. Depsang is also a link towards Siachen and the DBO airfield.

Indian Army occupying the Kailash Range has been an important turning point, feels Lt gen Hooda and Lt Gen KJS Pannu, a former 14 Corps Commander. They say China did not expect India to do that. Calling the disengagement Pangong Tso-centric, Lt Gen Pannu feels Chinea cannot be trusted. "What guarantee can we have when China breached all five agreements signed since 1993. They may go back, re-strategise, replan, retrain, reequip, lull us into complacency and surprise us."

By all estimates, this is going to be a long affair. It's time to be ready and arm, train and equip our soldiers to deal with surprises in the future.

Accepting casualties, China blames India for face-off in June

PUSHKAR BANAKAR @New Delhi

EIGHT months after the violent face-off with Indian troops in Galwan Valley along the Line of Actual Control, China for the first time accepted suffering four casualties. They continue to hold India responsible for the confrontation though.

Beijing honoured five PLA soldiers — four dead and one injured — for bravery in 'battle' with Indian troops. The People's Daily released the names of the four killed — Chen Hongjun, Chen Xiangrong, Xiao Siyuan and Wang Zhuoran.

This admission comes days after Russian news agency TASS said at least 45 Chinese soldiers had died in the June 15 clash. India had announced immediately that it had lost 20 of its soldiers, including Colonel G Santosh Babu.

"The report has been revealed to give the truth to the public because the truth is long awaited and it is necessary for the people to know the true story," Chinese foreign ministry spokesperson Hua Chunying said.

Hua said India is an important neighbour and restoring a healthy and stable relationship is in the interest of the two countries. "I hope the Indian side will work with us towards achieving this shared goal."

The face-off between Indian and PLA troops came after Indian soldiers were prevented from reaching their patrolling points. Though there was no firing reported in accordance with the agreement signed by the two sides, Chinese troops used rods studded with nails and barbed wire to attack Indian soldiers.

Also, the admission of casualties came on a day when the disengagement process on the banks of Pangong Lake was completed, with the Chinese defence and foreign ministries continuing to blame India. "China has exercised great restraint, reflecting China's tolerance and commitment as a responsible power. However, the Indian side has repeatedly exaggerated and hyped the casualties, distorting the truth and misleading international public opinion," the Chinese foreign ministry said in a statement.

Chinese defence ministry spokesperson Ren Guoqiang said Indian troops had been crossing LAC since June. "They even attacked Chinese officers and soldiers who went there for negotiation, thus intentionally triggering physical conflict at Galwan Valley and causing casualties on both sides.

Scepticism surrounds relaunch of Coronil

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

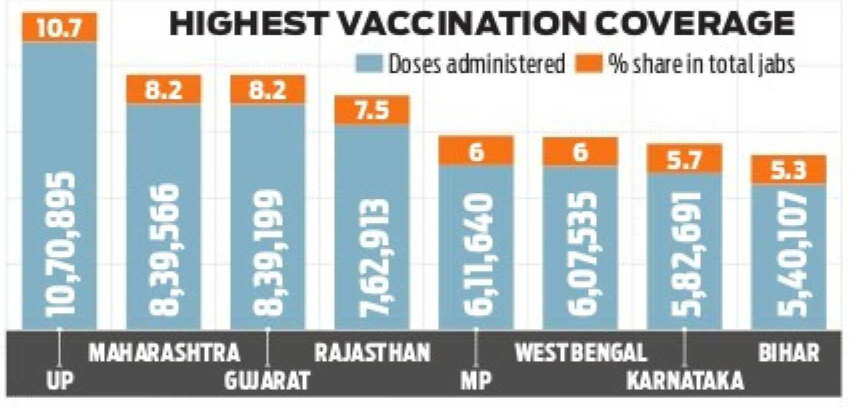
YOGA guru Ramdev on Friday released a research paper on the "first evidence-based medicine for Covid-19 by Patanjali" amid scepticism that the product claimed to be a cure for coronavirus may not have any scientific basis.

Coronil, introduced in the Indian market last June during the peak of the pandemic, was relaunched on Friday in the presence of Health Minister Harsh Vardhan and Road Transport and Highways Minister Nitin Gadkari.

"Coronil has received the Certificate of Pharmaceutical Product (CoPP) from the Ayush section of Central Drugs Standard Control Organisation as per the WHO certification scheme," said a statement by Patanjali. Under CoPP, Coronil can now be exported to 158 countries. The CDSCO or the Ayush ministry have not yet clarified the claims made by the company so far.

Last June, Patanjali launched 'Coronil and Swasari', claiming that these were not immunity boosters but "sure shot Ayurvedic cure" for Covid-19. According to them, it had shown 100 per cent favourable results during trials on participants.

The launch of Coronil, however, had drawn flak. Many said the claim lacked scientific data. The company has been claiming that the medicine which costs ₹545 can cure Covid-19 in three to seven days, but experts point out that most mild and asymptomatic cases of Covid-19 recover on their own.



Over one-third of healthcare staff yet to take the vax

SUMI SUKANYA DUTTA @New Delhi

NEARLY 35 per cent of healthcare workers across India may refuse Covid-19 vaccination offered by the government by the target date, suggests an analysis of the vaccination data by the Union Ministry of Health and Family Welfare.

Till Friday morning, about 62 lakh of the one crore healthcare workers in the country scheduled to take first jabs had taken them.

The Centre had advised vaccination for all healthcare workers at least once by February 20. Since most of the states have followed the directive and presuming that about 3 lakh more will get first shots over Friday and Saturday, nearly 35 lakh are likely to forego the chance to take jabs by the target date.

It was for this reason that Union Health Minister Harsh Vardhan on Friday, once again appealed to healthcare workers to get inoculated with Covid-19 vaccine doses as per schedule.

Data shared by the Centre shows 1,01,88,007 doses had been administered through 2,11,462 sessions, as per the provisional report till Friday morning. These included 62,60,242 healthcare workers who received the first dose, 6,10,899 healthcare workers who received the second dose and 33,16,866 frontline workers who got first shots after being included in the programme from February 2. The second dose began on February 13 for those who had completed 28 days after the first. "The country is witnessing a progressive increase in the vaccination day by day," said the government.

Though there is no information, there is anecdotal evidence that among healthcare workers, doctors are most reluctant to get the vaccination. Other support staff are taking shots in significant numbers.

As per ministry data, eight states account for 57.47 per cent of total vaccine doses. Uttar Pradesh alone accounts for 10.5 per cent. Similarly, seven states account for 60.85 per cent of the second doses administered. Telangana leads this list with a 12 per cent share of second doses (73,281 beneficiaries).

Alarm in Maharashtra, gatherings under scanner

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

MAHARASHTRA saw a surge in Covid-19 numbers, with 6112 positive cases on Friday.

According to the health department, more new cases were reported than recoveries and patients discharged. On Saturday, 2159 were cured and discharged, while 44 died. In January, average new cases were 1000 per day.

Brihanmumbai Municipal Corporation has asked the vigilance department to conduct surprise visits to wedding halls, functions and parties to check whether pandemic guidelines are properly followed or not. If they are not, marriage hall owners would be fined ₹5000 and the hall will be sealed for 15 days.

Mumbai mayor Kishori Pednekar visited the Seven Hills hospital and asked offficials to prepare for more Covid cases.

The Vidarbha region continues to witness more positive cases. In Nagpur district, 755 new cases and nine deaths were reported on Friday. This figure was 755 in Amaravati, 183 in Akola, 756 in Pune and 823 in Mumbai. However, as per the government report, no foreign strain was found. A statement says that in samples tested, no virus found in Brazil, South Africa, and Great Britain was detected.

Chief Minister Uddhav Thackeray asked local bodies to impose lockdown restrictions wherever required to contain the spread. Incidentally, several ministers of the Maha Vikas Aghadi government are infected. They include Irrigation Minister Jayant Patil, Health Minister Rajesh Tope, Home Minister Anil Deshmukh and NCP leader Eknath Khadse.

The governor later participated in the Shiv Jayanti celebrations organised by BMC.

IND, AUS ENCOURAGING CIRCULAR ECONOMY: PM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Friday said a circular economy could be an important step in solving many problems the world is facing.

Addressing the India-Australia Circular Economy Hackathon, the Prime Minister said: "Recycling, reusing, eliminating waste and improving resource efficiency must become part of our lifestyle. This hackathon saw innovative solutions from India and Australia. These innovations will inspire our countries in taking circular economy solutions. We must now also explore ways to scale and incubate these ideas."

The idea of India Australia Circular Economy Hackathon was proposed during the India-Australia Virtual Leaders' Summit in June last year.

Modi said consumption-based economic models have resulted in a great burden on the planet and urged people to remember that we do not own the planet. "It is not enough to make production processes more efficient and less polluting. No matter how fast or slow one drives, if the direction is wrong, then one is bound to reach the wrong destination. And so, we must set the right direction."

Submit documents for passport online using new 'digilocker' service

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

MINISTER of State for External Affairs, V Muraleedharan on Friday inaugurated the digilocker service for passport seva, enabling applicants to submit documents online. According to the minister, the move will benefit applicants as they will no longer be required to carry original documents at the time of application or renewal of passports.

Documents which can be stored in the government e-locker or digilocker include Aadhaar card, driving licence, voter ID card, PAN verification record, arms licence, birth certificate, caste certificate, ration card, pension certificate, life insurance policy certificate, class X certificate, electricity and telephone bills.

"To give further fillip to the citizen-centric approach, and to enhance passport service experience in a paperless mode, we have successfully integrated into digilocker platform of the Government. This would enable citizens to submit documents required for passport services through digilocker in a paperless mode. Now, they are not required to carry original documents," Muraleedharan said.

The minister said the government is working on the idea of including passport as one of the documents in the digilocker. "Moving forward, I am confident this will help citizens retrieve the passport whenever required. In case of loss of passport and while reissuance, this facility will be of great help," he said, adding that enhanced security features for ePassport are in the pipeline to make it tamper proof.

"In the coming years, biometric passports would help improve immigration processes at airports which are equipped with automatic e-Passport gates," he said.

Moving forward, I am confident this will help citizens retrieve the passport whenever required... In case of loss of passport and while reissuance, this facility will be of great help

Ministry allows drone use to gather agriculture data

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

THE Ministry of Civil Aviation has allowed drone deployment by the agriculture ministry for remote sensing data collection in 100 districts of the country, for gram panchayat level yield estimation, under the Pradhan Mantri Fasal Bima Yojana.

Earlier, the agriculture ministry had sought nod for allowing short-listed private agencies to operate drones to capture images of rice fields in these districts to assess crop yields.

A government official said drone-based images are important inputs in the models for crop yield estimation and validation. Remote sensing data captured through drones will help get accurate information on crop conditions and losses to farmers, and shorten the time for crop insurance claims.

Getting right information is important at the right time in order to make accurate decisions. Drone data helps insurance companies and agents to ensure that a farmer gets help in time when in need.

As per the aviation regulator, the exemption will be valid for one year from the date of issue of the permission letter, or until the Digital Sky Platform is operational, whichever is earlier. The agriculture ministry will have to obtain clearances from local administration, Ministry of Defence and Home Affairs and others concerned.

Two police personnel shot dead in Srinagar

Second militant attack in city in three days; 3 terrorists killed in Shopian; three held for firing on dhaba owner's son

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

TWO policemen were shot dead by militants in Srinagar on Friday, while three al-Badar terrorists were killed during a gunfight in Shopian district of south Kashmir. The police also claimed to have cracked Wednesday's attack on a dhaba owner's son by arresting all three accused.

Militants fired at two unarmed policemen — Sohail Ahmad and Mohammad Yusuf — at Baghat Chowk near Saddar police station in Srinagar in the afternoon.

The two were taken to police hospital, but succumbed. In a CCTV footage of the attack, a militant can be seen taking out an assault rifle and firing indiscriminately at the policemen standing near a shop.

Kashmir IGP Vijay Kumar said Lashkar-e-Taiba (LeT) militants were involved in the attack and they have been identified.

"One of them is a foreigner and another local, Saqib, hailing from Barzulla area of Srinagar. We will neutralise them soon," he said adding, "We will beef up the security to check loopholes and won't allow militants to strike in the city."

This is the second militant attack in Srinagar this week. On Wednesday, militants had fired at and injured Akash Mehra, son of dhaba owner.

IGP Kumar identified the arrested militants involved in the attack on Mehra as Suhail Ahamad Mir, Owais Manzoor Sofi and Vilayat Aziz Mir. He said they are new recruits of the Lashkar and the Muslim Janbaz Force, which owned up the attack, was an offshoot of the Lashkar-e-Taiba (LeT).

The weapons and the bike used in the attack, a grenade and other incriminating materials were also recovered from the trio.

In Shopian, a gunfight broke out at village Badigam area during a search operation on Friday evening. "The operation was suspended at night and resumed early Friday after troops evacuated the persons being held hostage by the militants," a police officer said.

Three local al Badar militants — Suhail Sheikh alias Azeem, Shahid Ahmad Dar alias Furkan and Muddasir Ahmad Wagay — were killed in the gunfight.

In another encounter on Friday night at village Zanigam in central Kashmir's Budgam district, Special Police Officer Mohammad Altaf was while constable Manzoor Ahmad was seriously injured.

Modi, Didi to address rallies at same venue

PRANAB MONDAL @ Kolkata

WEST Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee will address an election rally at the same venue in Hooghly district within 48 hours of Prime Minister Narendra Modi's scheduled visit there on February 22. The selection for the public rally at the Dunlop factory ground in Sahaganj by the Trinamool Congress is said to be a reflection of an intensified slugfest between the ruling party and the BJP in the state.

The BJP strategically picked the Dunlop factory ground, known as an industrial zone, as the prime minister is likely to address the rally Bengal's poor performance in attracting investments during Banerjee's rule. Modi's last public rally was in East Midnapore district which is known as an agricultural region.

> The BJP is bringing crowds from outside the state to fill up the venues. We will give them a befitting reply as the people of Hooghly will spill over the ground on the day of the CM's rally
>
> TMC leader

"The decision of holding the rally at the same venue is part of our aggressive campaign strategy against the BJP. We have decided to address rallies from the same place where the BJP will try to mislead the people with a bunch of lies. It will strengthen our counter-attack to the BJP,'' said TMC MP and spokesperson Saugata Roy.

Two days after BJP's state and national functionaries visited the ground, TMC leaders also went there.

It will be the first time the Bengal CM will address a poll rally from a place where Modi will be present. Sources in the BJP said Modi is likely to unleash an attack on Banerjee for driving out Tata Motors from Singur in Hooghly district and the subsequent impact on Bengal's investments. Senior BJP leaders, including national vice-president Mukul Roy, have already announced that the party will bring back Tata Motors to Singur if it comes to power. "Standing on the same ground, the CM will reply to the allegations that Modi is likely to make in his speech. We will follow the practice of selecting the same venues for organising rallies ahead of the Assembly elections,'' said a senior TMC leader.

MHA sends 12,000 CAPF troops to Bengal

New Delhi: The Centre has ordered deployment of around 12,000 troops of Central Armed Police Forces (CAPF) in West Bengal ahead of the state elections and Prime Minister Narendra Modi's visit, according to government sources. As many as 115 companies of paramilitary forces are being sent to West Bengal in view of the multi-phase election, a senior government functionary said, adding that the forces will join duties from February 21.

BJP youth leader arrested with cocaine in Kolkata

Kolkata: BJP's youth-wing leader Pamela Goswami was arrested with cocaine from south Kolkata's upscale New Alipore area on Friday. Goswami, the state secretary of Bharatiya Janata Yuva Morcha, was along with a friend, identified as Prabir Kumar Dey, in her car when they were nabbed. Around 100 gm of cocaine was allegedly found in her handbag, and other parts of the car.

Unnao murders: 2 held, cops suspect affair

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

TWO persons were arrested by Unnao police on Friday evening in connection with the poisoning of three minor Dalit girls in Baburaha village of the district on Wednesday. One of them, according to police, was in love with one of the girls but she spurned him.

Two of the poisoned girls died on way to hospital while the third one is battling for life in a Kanpur hospital.

Making the announcements about the arrests before the media, Laksmi Singh, IG, Lucknow Range, said Vinay (25) and a 15-year-old boy of a village adjoining Baburaha were arrested on the basis of surveillance and a tip-off received from a police informer. The IG claimed Vinay had accepted to have committed the crime.

IG Singh revealed that the accused was known to the girls. On the fateful day, while they were collecting fodder in the field, the duo approached them and offered snacks and water spiked with insecticide.

Vinay revealed during his interrogation that he was frustrated as he had proposed to the girl on February 14 and had asked for her mobile number, but she refused to share it.

On Wednesday, Vinay, accompanied by the teenager, allegedly came prepared with his plan to poison the girl who had rebuffed his professions of love. The IG said that as per Vinay's confession, he offered the spiked water only to the girl he loved but other two also snatched it from him and had it as they were thirsty. All the three girls started frothing as soon as they drank the insecticide-laced water.

During the interrogation, the accused told the police that he came to know the girl during the lockdown while both worked in their fields, which were adjacent. Earlier in the day, the last rites of the girls were performed amid tight security in the presence of the family and police and district administration officials.

The bodies were brought to their village after the autopsy on Thursday. The DM denied reports of any pressure being exerted on the family with regard to performing the last rites.

Meanwhile, a team from Forensic Science Laboratory visited the village to collect more evidence. A team of nine officials recreated the crime scene at the spot and collected samples of froth from the girls' clothes for chemical tests.

HOSPITAL FIRE

Two nurses booked for infant deaths

MUMBAI: The probe into Bhandara fire tragedy, in which ten infants lost their lives at the district civil hospital last month, has found two nurses guilty of negligence. They have been booked for culpable homicide.

According to Maharashtra Home Minister Anil Deshmukh, a thorough probe was conducted by DSP-level officials and the nurses, who were on night duty in the natal care unit at Bhandara hospital, were found negligent which resulted in the death of the newborn babies. "We have taken against these guilty employees," he said.

The probe report said a baby warmer caught fire because of a short circuit in the Sick Newborn Care Unit and the blaze later spread to the entire hospital.

The report also blamed Civil Surgeon Pramod Khandate for not taking certain steps that could have prevented the mishap. But the state government has so far taken action only against the nurses.

The opposition alleged the report was "a farce to save the big fish". "The Maha Vikas Aghadi is safeguarding the senior officers and the nurses have been made the scapegoat. This probe should have been carried out by a retired IAS officer or a special investigation team. The government should make the report public," BJP leader Ashish Shelar said. ENS

Suit filed for restoration of puja at mosque

LUCKNOW: A civil suit was filed in the court of a senior divisional judge, Varanasi, on Thursday, seeking to restore 'puja and darshan' at an "ancient temple" on the premises of Gyanvapi Mosque adjacent to Kashi Vishwanath temple.

The suit will be placed before the court concerned, said petitioners' lawyer H S Jain, who is also involved in moving the petitions pertaining to Krishna Janmabhoomi in Mathura. A lawyer for the committee of management — Anjuman Intazamia Masjid — was also present in the court from the respondents' side and sought time to file a counter affidavit in the case.

"It is a title suit," said the petitioners' lawyer. The property in question is the temple complex known as "ancient temple" existing at settlement plot No. 9130 within the area of Dasaswamedh in Varanasi.

The plaint has been filed through ten individuals acting as next friends of the deities within the precincts. The suit was filed for restoration of darshan, pooja, aarti, bhog and performance of rituals at 'sthan' of Lord Adi Visheshwar and Goddess Maa Shringar Gauri and other deities within the temple complex. ENS

Activists hail U'khand move to give land ownership to daughters, wives

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Dehradun

WOMEN rights activists have hailed the Uttarakhand government which has passed an ordinance to give land ownership rights to daughters and wives of male landowners by amending the Uttarakhand Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act ahead of the budget session of the Assembly.

Under the ordinance, the daughters will have ownership rights on the land owned by their father. Similarly, a wife will also be the joint owner of the land of her husband.

According to the Election Commission, Uttarakhand has 37.40 lakh women voters out of a total of 78.15 lakh. The ordinance has been brought keeping in mind a large-scale migration of male members in search of work.

Divya Rawat, a Nari Shakti Award recipient from the President, said: "The move will end the gender-based discrimination in the property rights. Women are equal contributors to their family, society, country and the world."

Through this ordinance, the government aims to provide economic independence to women who are working in fields owned by their husbands or fathers especially in the hilly areas of the state.

So far in Uttarakhand, the land ownership rights are transferred to men in the family which are then passed on to their sons.

Tanuja Joshi, an activis, said: "A lot needs to be done to empower women of the state and the country. I applaud the lawmakers for bringing the amendment."

SOLAR POWER

Nagaland village on Myanmar border lights up for first time in 44 years

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @ Guwahati

THIS February 16 will always remain special in Nokyeang's life. It was the first time he had read his school textbooks under the light of an electric bulb, something his father could never do in his lifetime..

The 10-year-old and children like him were the first of three generations of Shinnyu villagers in Nagaland's Mon district on the India-Myanmar border to witness their village lit up. By staying away from their fields, the locals danced all day long and had a feast, too, on February 16 when Shinnyu was electrified.

The Mon district administration, in collaboration with the Global Himalayan Expedition (GHE), completed the electrification of the village using solar power. It is the first village in Nagaland to be covered under the initiative. The village has 60 households, a primary school, a guest house, a community hall and a church. It was set up in 1977 but recognised by the state government in 2002. "Earlier, it was just bamboo torches to find the way. Now, there are a host of possibilities," said Nokyeang's father Khole, a farmer.

Locals danced all day long on Feb 16 when Shinnyu was electrified | EXPRESS

In the absence of proper road infrastructure, the non-descript village has virtually remained cut off. The nearest village, Yongkhao, is located 25 km away and the nearest town, Tobu, is 58 km away.

Mon DM Thavaseelan K said all households were electrified using solar power. The GHE partnered with the district administration and executed the ₹23 lakh project under its corporate social responsibility. "The installation of solar lighting will hopefully transform the lives of the community. The GHE is working towards providing clean energy access through solar power to communities living in remote areas," Thavaseelan said.

John Khangnyu, headmaster of a school in the village, said: "The locals lived in darkness for years. Now, they will be able to keep a TV at home."

KOLKATA DIARY

Art exhibition to express solidarity with farmers

A series of paintings and sculptures is being displayed in an exhibition titled "Firmly with farmers on canvas" at the Academy of Fine Arts, reflecting the turbulent times in the backdrop of the long-standing farmers' protests on the borders of the national capital. The exhibition, organised by Prachi Protichi, a cultural organisation, started on February 15 and will continue till February 21. The curatorial note of the exhibition said, "The exhibition is our humble tribute to farmers. The canvasses mirror the revolutionary times that we are living in." Among the exhibits, a sculpture displayed on a table showcases a skeletal farmer with writhing in pain.

Second round of engineering counselling at CU

The Calcutta University will conduct independent counselling for the second time since December to fill 50 of the 237 BTech seats that are still vacant. The second round of independent counselling will take place more than a month after the first-year classes started. The university had conducted the first round of decentralised counselling in December to fill 89 seats that had remained vacant after the centralised counselling conducted by the state Joint Entrance Examination board. The Calcutta University decided to hold the second round as seats across departments fell vacant after some enrolled students left for newer National Institute of Technologies (NITs), which offer better infrastructure, a university official said.

Regularisation charges to go up in city

The Kolkata Municipal Corporation has linked the fees charged to regularise illegal structures with the existing circle rate of the area where the structure is built, a step that will increase manifold the amount that has to be paid to regularise unauthorised constructions. The circle rate is unique to places and it is higher for upscale localities. The circle rate of a place is determined as an amount per square feet of an area, said an official of the civic body. Under the new system, the regularisation fee will be a percentage of the market value of the size of the unauthorised construction.

Norms out for calculating examination marks

The state higher secondary council has come up with a topic-wise division of marks in each subject, factoring the reduction in the higher secondary syllabus necessitated by the Covid-19 pandemic. The school education department had in November announced that syllabus would be slashed by 30 to 35 per cent as on-campus classes could not be held. An official of state higher secondary council said it was crucial that topic-wise division of marks was announced so that the examinees could prepare themselves for theory examinations that would be held across the state from June 15 on the basis of reduced syllabus.

Drivers strictly controlled by Uber: UK apex court

Landmark ruling by the Supreme Court hailed as another nail in the coffin for gig economy, paves the way for drivers to get job benefits

LONDON

BRITAIN'S top court on Friday ruled that drivers at US ride-hailing giant Uber are entitled to workers' rights, in a judgement with huge implications for the "gig economy".

The Supreme Court ruled that the service performed by drivers was "very tightly defined and controlled by Uber" so they could not be considered to be self-employed.

The court observed that the drivers were "in a position of subordination and dependency... such that they have little or no ability to improve their economic position through professional or entrepreneurial skill," added the ruling.

"The drivers were rightly found to be 'workers'," the six judges concluded.

The ruling clarified that drivers are considered to be on the job when they are logged in to the Uber app in their territory and ready and willing to accept rides, which could be used to calculate minimum wage and holiday pay. Uber had argued that drivers were only working when they were making a journey with a paying passenger.

Uber said it respected the ruling, and "will now consult with every active driver across the UK to understand the changes they want to see", according to Jamie Heywood, its manager for northern and eastern Europe.

Lower courts ruled in 2016, 2017 and 2018 in favour of a group of 20 Uber drivers who argued they were entitled to employee status given the length of time they had been working through the Uber app, and the way that the company oversaw their work.

Uber drivers celebrate as they listen to the court decision on a tablet computer outside the Supreme Court in London on Friday | AP

Uber insisted that the drivers were self-employed since they choose their own hours and place of work, and often find passengers through rival apps.

Employment tribunal to decide on compensation

The drivers' case is now expected to return to the UK employment tribunal for decisions on compensation for drivers over lost pay. Drivers could be entitled to an average of 12,000 pounds ($16,800). Many are looking forward to getting paid time off after years of working without holiday or sick pay. "I am very pleased. I can go on holiday without having to worry about how to pay for it," a driver said.

The complainants can now ask an employment tribunal for compensation which could trigger far-reaching changes affecting all ride-hailing drivers.

Lead claimant James Farrar said he was "delighted" by the ruling, claiming it would "fundamentally re-order the gig economy" in Britain—in which people do short-term work without formal contracts, or without guaranteed working hours.

Chief executive Dara Khosrowshahi on Monday presented a series of promises to European governments and trade unions. He said the aim was to offer a transparent and fair pay structure, and more benefits to drivers.

Uber is calling for companies in the sector to form a joint fund that would allow drivers who work for different apps to be able to access protections and benefits such as paid holidays. Agencies

Sheikha Latifa

UN body asks UAE for proof that princess Latifa is alive

GENEVA

THE United Nations Human Rights Office said on Friday it has asked the United Arab Emirates for proof that Dubai's Sheikha Latifa is still alive following "disturbing" video footage aired this week.

The request comes after the BBC aired self-shot footage in which the daughter of Dubai's ruler Sheikh Mohammed bin Rashid Al-Maktoum said she was being held captive and feared for her life.

The father of 35-year-old Latifa is the vice president and prime minister of the UAE, of which Dubai is one of the seven emirates.

The princess has not been seen in public since she attempted to escape from the emirate by sea in 2018.

The Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights said it had spoken to the UAE's diplomatic mission in Geneva on Thursday.

In 2018, Latifa attempted to flee the UAE on a boat that was intercepted by commandos off the coast of India, according to her companions and the UK-based group Detained in Dubai. PTI

US says ready for dialogue with Iran to salvage N-deal

WASHINGTON

US President Joe Biden's administration on Thursday offered talks with Iran led by European allies and reversed two largely symbolic steps against Tehran imposed by Donald Trump, as it sought to salvage a nuclear deal on the brink of collapse.

Three days before Iran's deadline to restrict some access to UN nuclear inspectors without an end to Trump's sanctions, new US Secretary of State Antony Blinken (pic) warned jointly with European powers that the move would be "dangerous."

Hours after Blinken's videoconference with his French, British and German counterparts, the European Union political director, Enrique Mora, proposed via Twitter an "informal meeting" involving Iran—and the United States accepted.

"The United States would accept an invitation from the European Union High Representative to attend a meeting of the P5+1 and Iran to discuss a diplomatic way forward on Iran's nuclear program," State Department spokesman Ned Price said. The P5—Security Council powers Britain, China, France, Russia and the United States—plus Germany sealed the 2015 deal brokered by then president Barack Obama.

Former president Donald Trump withdrew from the deal in 2018 and imposed sweeping sanctions, aiming to bring Iran to its knees.

In response Iran renewed its call for the US to lift all sanctions imposed by Trump.

Foreign Minister Mohammad Javad Zarif tweeted that Iran would "immediately reverse" its retaliatory measures if the US lifts "all sanctions imposed, re-imposed or relabelled by Trump".

Iran's foreign ministry spokesman Saeed Khatibzadeh said there is currently no such thing as P5+1 "because of US withdrawal" from the agreement.

"Trump left the room and tried to blow it up," the spokesman tweeted. "Gestures are fine. But to revive P5+1, US must Act: LIFT sanctions. We WILL respond. Here is the key sequence: #CommitActMeet."

Zarif did not address the Biden administration's offer of talks. Iran has demanded an end to Trump's sanctions before reversing protest measures it began almost a year after the US withdrawal. AFP

Curbs on movement of Iranian diplomats eased

Washington: The United States said Thursday it was easing draconian restrictions imposed by Donald Trump's administration on movements of Iranian diplomats accredited at the United Nations, headquartered in New York City, as part of a bid to reduce tensions. "The idea here is to take steps to remove unnecessary obstacles to multilateral diplomacy by amending the restrictions on domestic travel. Those had been extremely restrictive," a State Department official told reporters. As part of his maximum pressure campaign on Iran, Trump in 2019 barred Iranian diplomats from all but a few blocks around the United Nations and their mission

GI tag for Himalayan pink salt sought

Pakistan has decided to register Himalayan pink salt as Geographical Indications (GI) to prevent its unauthorised use by other countries. A GI tag is a sign used on products that have a specific geographical origin and possess origin-based qualities and reputation in the region. The precious salt is extracted from the Salt Range in Punjab which extends along the south of the Potohar Plateau and the north of the Jhelum River. The decision was taken in a meeting with the Intellectual Property Organisation (IPO) Pakistan chaired by Commerce Adviser Razak Dawood. IPO Chairman Mujeeb Ahmed Khan also attended the meeting, the Dawn newspaper reported on Friday. An official announcement said that during the meeting, GI registration of products from various regions of Pakistan was discussed.

Sri Lanka will purchase 10 million doses of Oxford-AstraZeneca vaccine from India, officials here have said. In January, under India's neighbourhood first policy, Sri Lanka received 5,00,000 doses of free vaccines. They were administered as a priority to frontline health workers and members of the Armed forces. The State Pharmaceutical Corporation has signed the order with Serum Institute of India (SII) for 10 million doses, officials said. This agreement has been approved by the Attorney General on Monday.

Woman shot during anti-coup protest dies

A young woman who was shot in the head by police last week during a protest against the military coup in Myanmar died on Friday, her family said. It was the first confirmed death among thousands of protesters who have faced off against security forces since the junta took power on February 1 and detained the country's elected leaders and prevented Parliament from convening. Mya Thwet Thwet Khine was shot during a demonstration in the capital, Naypyitaw, on February 9, two days before her 20th birthday. Video showed her sheltering from water cannons and suddenly dropping to the ground after a bullet penetrated the motorcycle helmet she was wearing. She had been on life support in a hospital with what doctors said was no chance of recovery.

G7 commits $7.5 bn to help poorer nations ramp up vaccinations

LONDON

LEADERS of G7 countries agreed on Friday to "intensify cooperation" in response to the coronavirus pandemic and increase funding commitments for the rollout of vaccines in the world's poorest countries to $7.5 billion.

"Today, with increased financial commitments of over $4 billion to ACT-A and COVAX, collective G7 support totals $7.5 billion," the elite club comprising Britain, Canada, France, Germany, Italy, Japan and the US said in a joint statement.

Earlier in the day, the White House announced that US President Joe Biden will pledge $4 billion in aid to the Covax vaccination program during his virtual meeting with other G7 leaders. An initial $2 billion will be released "by the end of this month," with the rest coming over the next two years, said a senior White House official, who asked not to be identified, on Thursday.

Covax is a global project to procure and distribute coronavirus vaccines for at least the most vulnerable 20 per cent in every country, allowing poorer nations to catch up with the rush by dozens of wealthy countries to vaccinate.

"The United States is really excited to be making our first contribution to Covax," the White House official said. "We do think it is vital to take a role in beating the pandemic globally."

Soon afterwards, the European Union announced on Friday it is doubling its contribution to the Covax programme to one billion euros ($1.2 billion).

EU chief Ursula von der Leyen declared the increased funding from the bloc's budget, and pledged a further 100 million euros in aid to support the fight against the virus in Africa, in a videolink appearance at the G7 summit

Germany is donating an additional 1.5 billion euros ($1.8 billion), Finance Minister Olaf Scholz said, increasing an earlier contribution of 600 million euros.

"Today we want to make clear: we stand with the poorest countries. Germany is providing a further 1.5 billion euros for Covax, WHO and others," Scholz said in a statement. "Vaccines are the only way out of the pandemic."

German Development Minister Gerd Mueller said just 0.5 per cent of Covid-19 vaccinations had taken place in the world's poorest countries.

CONTEMPT OF COURT

Malaysian news website faces steep fine over readers' comments

PUTRAJAYA

A leading Malaysian news site was fined $1,20,000 (₹87 lakh) on Friday after being convicted of contempt over readers' comments that criticised the judiciary, sparking concerns about worsening press freedom.

Fears have grown that independent media outlets are under attack in the Southeast Asian nation since a scandal-plagued coalition seized power without an election last year following the collapse of a reformist government.

Malaysiakini, a popular portal that has made a name for itself by reporting on the misdeeds of the ruling elite, and its editor-in-chief Steven Gan were accused of contempt of court in a case brought by the attorney general.

Malaysiakini's editor-in-chief Steven Gan arrives in court | AFP

The case related to five readers' comments posted under an article that were critical of the judiciary, which authorities say eroded public confidence in the courts.

A panel of judges at the country's top court ruled that Malaysiakini was guilty and ordered the site to pay a 5,00,000 ringgit ($1,20,000) fine—more than double the amount sought by prosecutors.

Gan—who could have faced a jail term if convicted—was cleared, but he criticised the decision as "uncalled for".

"The hefty fine is really an attempt not to just shut us up—but to shut us down," he told reporters in Putrajaya.

The portal immediately called on Malaysians to donate to help cover the penalty, and raised over 5,00,000 ringgit within five hours.

The site has faced continual attacks since it was founded in 1999, ranging from police raids to criminal prosecutions, and has so far managed to survive every challenge. AFP

Aus and Facebook hold talks to cool tensions

Sydney: Australia and Facebook held high-stakes talks on Friday after the social media giant sparked global outrage by blacking out news for its Australian users, as Canberra insisted it wouldn't back down on a new law that would force the tech firm to pay for journalistic content. From Thursday, Facebook has blanked out the pages of media outlets for Australian users and blocked them from sharing any news content, rather than submit to the proposed legislation. Treasurer Josh Frydenberg said he had spoken with Facebook CEO Mark Zuckerberg on Friday to find a way out of the showdown, and that negotiations would continue over the weekend. "We talked through their remaining issues and agreed our respective teams would work through them immediately," he said.

Deadly winter storm tapers off in US east coast

New York: A fierce and deadly winter storm that wreaked havoc in the southern and central US and blanketed the East Coast in snow was forecast on Friday to start tapering off. After days of bone-chilling cold that left millions without power and caused water pipes to burst in oil-rich Texas, temperatures were forecast to be well above freezing on Friday in much of the Lone Star state and rise into the 50s Fahrenheit (10 to 15 Celsius) into the weekend. Lingering snow showers will continue in the Northeast US and New England, the National Weather Service said. But the worst of the extreme weather system appears to be over. "A much quieter weather pattern is in store for the CONUS over the next few days," the NWS said, referring to the continental United States.

Green hydrogen auctions in 3-4 months: R K Singh

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

TAKING forward the National Hydrogen Mission announced in the Union Budget this month, the Government of India is planning to make the usage of Made-in-India green hydrogen mandatory in sectors such as steel, oil refineries, and fertilizers. The Centre is planning for green hydrogen auctions within the next 3-4 months to further this agenda, said Power Minister R K Singh.

Green hydrogen is produced through processes which are powered by renewable energy, as opposed to that produced through fossil fuel-driven systems. Hydrogen, in turn, is used in several high energy sectors, such as in oil refineries, and fertiliser and steel factories. The government is now planning to make it mandatory for such factories to buy and use a minimum amount of green hydrogen from India, instead of importing their requirements. Singh pointed out that materials such as ammonia, for instance, are imported. "Suppose we have a mandate, like the renewable purchase obligations. To begin with, 10 per cent of the ammonia you import should be replaced by green ammonia made in India," Singh said, adding that a similar system could be put in place for hydrogen too. "We have put it to the Ministry of Petroleum... Suppose we put a mandate to replace 10 per cent of the hydrogen used for refining with green hydrogen made in India," Singh explained.

According to Singh, his officials have already conducted discussions on such a measure with the fertiliser and steel ministries too. As for the cost, which is likely to turn out to be significantly higher for green hydrogen, Singh said that a purchase obligation and subsequent demand would make the fuel more affordable in time.

"You have to have an obligation to buy made in India green hydrogen which may be slightly more expensive. It depends on the bid. In fact, it may turn out to be not more expensive at all," he said. As an example, he noted that solar electricity tariffs had cost as high as ₹15 per unit at one point of time, but now, have come down to just ₹1.99 per unit," he added.

Carbon-free economy

Green hydrogen is clean-burning molecule that can help to decarbonise a range of sectors that are difficult to clean up. It is produced from renewable electricity.

SET TO TAKE RARE TOP SPOT FOR IPOS IN SOUTHEAST ASIA

A clutch of Philippine firms, including newly launched real estate investment trusts could make the country Southeast Asia's biggest IPO market this year, driven by attractive valuations and a recovering economy. Investors and bankers say consumers, retailers and REITS are lining up record fund raisings that could top $4 billion in 2021, more than the combined tally of the last seven years. Across the rest of the region only a $2 billion Singapore IPO by a subsidiary of Thai Beverage and smaller floats in Indonesia and insurance IPOs in Thailand, are among those lining up for launches this year. A Singapore dollar 1.5 billion float by Singapore sovereign fund GIC-backed Monde Nissin, the company behind the iconic local instant noodle brand Lucky Me! and meat alternative Quoris are set to be the biggest local IPO, per reports. Besides, a long-pending IPO from National Grid Crop for the Philippines too is also expected.

FIRMS IMPROVE AUTO CHIP SUPPLIES

Taiwanese firms are resolving shortages of automotive chips, and have improved shipments to auto factories worldwide, according to the government. The shortage of chips has become a political problem, with several countries including Germany's economy minister writing to Taiwanese government. Even US President Joe Biden's top economic adviser Brian Deese too admitted efforts in resolving the shortage from the island's manufacturers. Such plants shutting assembly lines because of the shortages, worsened in some cases by the actions of the former US administration against Chinese chip makers. Taiwan, home to firms like Taiwan Semiconductor Manufacturing Co Ltd, the world's largest contract chip maker is centre stage for efforts to resolve the shortage. The government has urged companies to boost auto chip production and supplies are being restored to normalcy.

JAPAN

SLASHES ECONOMIC OUTLOOK AGAIN

Japan's government cut its view on the overall economy in February for the first time since April last year as an extended state of emergency to curb coronavirus infections battered consumer spending. Analysts expect the world's third-largest economy to shrink in the current quarter as renewed Covid-19 restrictions in Tokyo and some prefectures weigh on business activity and consumer spending. The government slashed its assessment on consumer spending for a third straight month saying it has shown weakness recently as people avoided eating out and travelling. But it raised its view on capital spending for a second consecutive month. Besides it also upgraded its assessment on corporate profits for the first time in two months. Japan's economy grew for a second straight quarter in October-December, extending a recovery from its worst postwar recession earlier last year. It's output gap in the December quarter was about $189.79 billion.

Facebook India MD bats for global tech framework amid growing scrutiny

BISMAH MALIK @Bengaluru

AT a time when the Indian government is considering social media regulation amidst growing unease with tech giants, Facebook India MD Ajit Mohan on Friday said that the country should work out a global framework for companies.

According to Mohan, it would be helpful if India, the world's second largest internet market, takes the leadership role in enabling formulation of standard regulations that tackle data privacy concerns.

He, while speaking at the Nasscom Technology Leadership Forum 2021, also stressed that the central governments should involve the participation of all the tech firms in the regulatory bodies.

Facebook-owned messaging service Whatsapp is currently facing several lawsuits in India after it announced its updates to the privacy policy which will enable the company to access chats with the businesses, inviting ire from India's information technology ministry. Whatsapp said on Friday that it has responded to emailed queries of the Ministry of Electronics and Information Technology and that it stands by its new policy which will be implemented nationwide from May 15. The Indian government has questioned Facebook over double standards when Europe was excluded from the implementation of new policy.

In Australia, Facebook's problems have worsened after the government asked Mark Zuckerbeg's company to pay news publishers, whose content is shared on the platform after the introduction of new regulations. Similarly, rival Twitter had also been caught up in a row with the Indian government after the firm was asked to block hundreds of accounts, remove content which threatened the sovereignty and security of the country amid a strong face-off with farmers.

IKEA set to invest ₹5,500 cr to build mall in India

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

INGKA CENTRES, part of the Ingka group and which owns most IKEA stores worldwide, on Friday said that it was setting up its first shopping centre in India entailing investments worth ₹5,500 crore. The expansion comes after Group said it had bought a 48,000-square-metre plot in the city of Noida on the outskirts of Delhi.

The Swedih retailer, which opened its first store in India in 2018 in Hyderabad followed by one in Mumbai in 2020, said it would develop the new site into a mall anchored by an Ikea store—adding to Ingka Centre's 45 existing Meeting Places across Europe, Russia and China. It plans to enter the United States this year and is looking to foray deeper into existing markets of operation. This will mark a significant step-up for the furniture giant's retail plans in the country. Noida has been chosen as the perfect location for a new retail-led destination that will match the lifestyles of the fast-growing population across India's National Capital Region, Ikea said.

"India is an exciting and dynamic market, and today's acquisition is a key milestone in our strategic vision to transform the business in response to the changing retail environment. Millions of people live within easy reach of Noida and we want to build emotional connections with them, by bringing as much value as we possibly can to their lives and communities," said Ingka Centres MD Cindy Andersen.

The 'Meeting Place' concept is very different from a typical mall. "These are always anchored around an Ikea store and are designed to meet the needs of local communities," the company said in a release.

'EV usage should be made mandatory for Govt officials'

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

TRANSPORT Minister Nitin Gadkari on Friday said that he plans to convert all vehicles in his ministry to electric vehicles (EVs) and urged other departments to follow suit to bring down running costs and reduce carbon emission. According to him, use of 10,000 electric vehicles in Delhi alone can alone save ₹30 crore per month.

Without mentioning the record hike in fuel prices, the minister said that there is an urgent need to find fossil fuel alternatives to avoid serious consequences in the coming future. "Currently we import crude oil worth ₹8 lakh crore. Its impact on the economy will be serious if it doubles in the next 4-5 years. Hence there is a need to look for alternatives," said Gadkari, while launching the Go Electric campaign.

Petrol and diesel prices rose for the 11th straight day on Friday and breached the ₹90-mark (petrol per litre) in Delhi. In Rajasthan, the same has crossed ₹100 market, a first in history.

Promoting the use of EVs, Gadkari said he will be launching an all-new electric tractor in the next 15 days. He added the speed at which EVs are launched, its prices will come in par with ICE vehicles in the next two years as volume plays a big role in reducing cost. At present, EV passenger vehicles are twice as expensive as ICE models. Gadkari also suggested providing subsidies to buy electric cooking appliances.

Bharti Airtel continues to pull ahead of Jio, Voda-Idea in subscriber additions

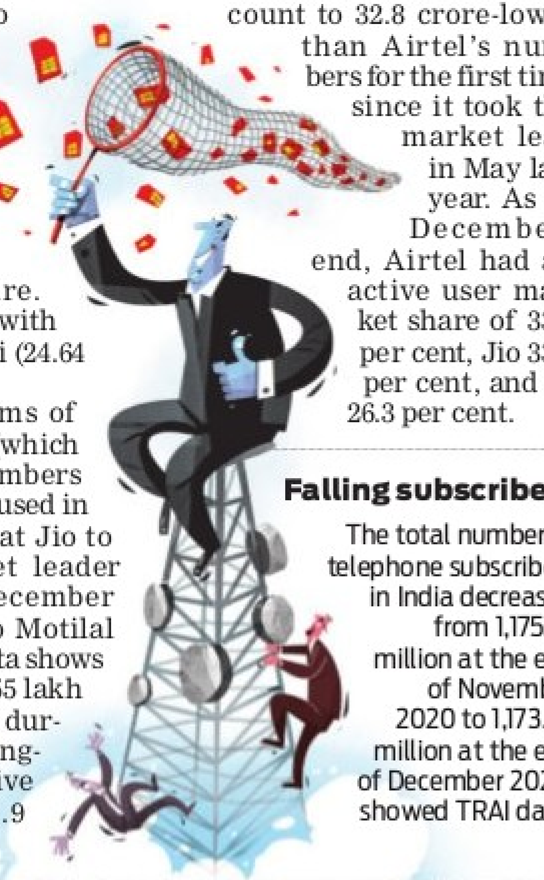
ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

DECEMBER 2020's telecom subscriber data shows that Reliance Jio's thus far unchallenged dominance in the mobile telecom market, a privilege it has enjoyed ever since its launch in 2016, is finally being put to the test.

Data from the Telecom Regulatory Authority of India (TRAI) shows that Bharti Airtel has beaten its Mukesh Ambani-owned rival in terms of subscriber additions more often than not over the past three quarters. In December, in fact, the data shows that Airtel has regained the market lead in terms of active subscribers, according to analysts from Motilal Oswal Financial Services. Jio, however, continues to hold the lead in gross subscribers.

According to the TRAI data, Airtel added a net 40.51 lakh subscribers during the month, while Jio managed to add only 4.79 lakh subscribers. Vodafone Idea (Vi) saw no real change in fortunes, continuing to lose subscribers at a rapid clip (56.9 lakh) during this month too. BSNL (2.5 lakh) and MTNL (6,442) also lost subscribers. In terms of gross subscriber market share, Jio remains the leader with a 35.43 per cent market share. Then comes Airtel with 29.3 per cent and Vi (24.64 per cent).

However, in terms of active subscribers (which do not include numbers that have not been used in a while), Airtel beat Jio to retake the market leader crown during December 2020. According to Motilal Oswal, the TRAI data shows that Bharti added 55 lakh active subscribers during the month, bringing its total active user base to 32.9 crore. Jio's numbers here were better than its gross, but it still managed to add only 32 lakh and bring its total active user count to 32.8 crore-lower than Airtel's numbers for the first time since it took the market lead in May last year. As of December-end, Airtel had an active user market share of 33.7 per cent, Jio 33.6 per cent, and Vi 26.3 per cent.



Falling subscribers

The total number of telephone subscribers in India decreased from 1,175.27 million at the end of November 2020 to 1,173.83 million at the end of December 2020, showed TRAI data.

BIO-BUBBLE NOT A CHOICE BUT NECESSITY: WV

ASHOK VENUGOPAL @Chennai

FORMER India player and Indian women's cricket team coach WV Raman is happy that cricket is back in the country. He also feels that the decision to let spectators watch the England series in Chennai from the stands will have a positive bearing in the future. The former India opener bats for pink-ball cricket and welcomes the move to rotate players in order to prevent burnout. In an exclusive chat with the newspaper, he says that Virat Kohli is following Sachin Tendulkar's footsteps and believes that Rohit Sharma will be a success in red-ball cricket too. Excerpts...

We will be playing a day and night pink-ball Test, how significant will it be?
I'm sure India will be keen to do well in the D/N game because the possibility of Tests being played under lights and with the pink ball is getting stronger with every passing year.

Will women be able to adjust to the bio-bubble?
Under the circumstances, it is not a matter of choice as much as it is a necessity. The girls have had the experience of being in a bio-bubble leading up to and during the T20 Challenge in the UAE during IPL. Besides, they are keen to get on to the field. In order to play, they have to be prepared to cope with the regulations and protocols.

How do you find the talent pool of spinners in India?
The emergence of Washington Sundar as an all-rounder will, no doubt, give extra flexibility to the team management, but behind the scenes, moves have been made to focus on developing talented spinners in the country from the time I was in the National Cricket Academy (NCA). So, we will see a lot of young spinners coming through on a regular basis.

Muttiah Muralitharan had said R Ashwin has the potential to break his highest Test wickets record or come close to picking up 600 wickets. What Ashwin needs to do?
I am glad for Ashwin that Muralitharan feels that way and I sincerely hope that Ashwin achieves that milestone. But as to what Ashwin needs to do is something that Murali, (Shane) Warne or (Anil) Kumble will be better placed to tell you.

Everyone expects Virat Kohli to score a ton every time he steps out. How much has Kohli improved as a captain and his ability to keep breaking records?
Kohli is doing what Tendulkar did right through his career — of living up to the expectations of the most encouraging and also the most demanding Indian public. He has done well so far in delivering both as a captain and a batsman, of course. Records are broken incidentally as the likes of Kohli and Tendulkar were focusing on excelling each and every time they went out to play for India.

Rohit Sharma is a prolific batsman in white ball cricket. What does he need to do to have the same amount of success in red-ball cricket?
He has not done badly at all in Test cricket. Perhaps we expect too much from him keeping in mind his stupendous success in white-ball cricket. As he plays more of Test cricket, he will make up for whatever opportunities he has missed out on thus far. Of this, I am certain because he is a top-quality player.

Tamil Nadu won the Syed Mushtaq Ali T20s. What helped them win the title?
The cricketers of TN have always possessed the skill sets to do well in the shorter formats of the game. In fact, I would go to the extent of saying they enjoy playing white ball cricket. Therefore, it is not surprising that they are a formidable lot in those formats.

Shape retention will be better: SG on pink balls

FIROZ MIRZA @Chennai

PINK balls, which will be used for the second-ever day/night Test in India beginning at the refurbished stadium in Ahmedabad on February 24, are expected to retain their shape for a longer period. Sanspareils Greenlands (SG), the manufacturer, has made the improvisation to ensure the need to change the balls during the contest doesn't arise.

"These are the same set of balls used for the inaugural D/N Test at Kolkata in 2019. Feedback was positive then. Everybody was happy with it. Shape retention (of the balls), however, will be better this time," Paras Anand, SG's marketing and sales director, said.

As many as 36 balls have been supplied to the Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) for the match. Six dozens of balls were supplied ahead of the Kolkata Test. Both India and Bangladesh received the balls only after the first Test of the series in Indore. But Virat Kohli and Co along with their English counterparts received pink balls for training even before the ongoing Test series which began in Chennai on February 5.

"We have given the balls in bulk to the BCCI in January. The balls in turn were distributed to both the teams for training, which is why a few of them including Hardik Pandya were seen practising with them after the second Test in Chennai," added Anand.

Test specialist Cheteshwar Pujara had spoken on issues related to sighting of the pink ball under lights after the Kolkata Test, but Anand asserted the problem is not specific to SG pink balls.

"Batsmen have to adjust especially during the twilight. The more they play, the more they will get used to of it."

He, though, played down the dew factor saying bowlers confront it in every format and know better how to deal with it. There are also doubts whether the players will get will reverse swing but Anand believed it all depends on the teams and how they shine the old ball.

FINAL CALL

Three-time Slam winner faces World No 24 in the Australian Open women's final to be held on Saturday. Talking points...

I have this mentality that people don't remember the runners-up. I think I fight the hardest in the finals. I think that's where you sort of set yourself apart.

I can say I can enjoy the moment and just try to play tennis and not really think too much about it, but there's going to be moments.

THIS OSAKA IS PRESSURE-PROOF

One of the main reasons why Osaka has advanced to her second Melbourne final (she won in 2019) is her ability in playing the pressure points. What sets her out from the rest is she doesn't get flustered, even if she is behind the ball. She believes in herself, her methods and it has yielded her maximum results. Her saving two match points while defeating Garbine Muguruza in the fourth rough is a case in point.

MEDVEDEV DOWNS TSITSIPAS, SETS UP FINAL WITH DJOKO

Melbourne: RUSSIA'S Daniil Medvedev insisted the pressure was all on Novak Djokovic in the Australian Open final after he breezed past Stefanos Tsitsipas in the semis on Friday. Medvedev, now into his second Grand Slam decider on the back of a 20-match winning streak, said the world number one has "more things to lose" on Sunday. Djokovic, with 17 Major titles, has won all eight of his Australian Open finals and is looking to close the gap on the record of 20 Slam trophies held by Roger Federer and Rafael Nadal. "I like that I don't have a lot of pressure because he never lost in eight times that he was here in the final," said the 25-year-old World No 4.

ON THE CUSP OF WINNER'S CIRCLE

When dozens of players were forced into hard quarantine in the middle of January, a few complained. Brady did not. She focused on the positives and carried on doing the things that she knew was within her control. The end result has been a run to her maiden final. Even if the highest seed she has faced is Karolina Muchova (No 25), she has looked largely untroubled, losing only two sets in the six matches so far.

Covid hits FCBU, Sevilla plans

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

AFTER inking a deal last month, FC Bengaluru United (FCBU) and La Liga club Sevilla FC will only be able to finalise their roadmap ahead by the end of next month. Even their plans of an exchange programme will only take shape when travel restrictions are relaxed. FCBU owner, Gaurav Manchanda, has hence adopted a wait and watch policy.

"We are in the midst of a travel ban due to COVID-19, which has made it challenging, having players and coaches being exchanged. When things become clear regarding travel restrictions, things can be worked out. But right now, we have to wait and watch," the club owner said in a virtual interaction. Sevilla's General Director José María Cruz was also in attendance and stated that they are going to have a defined plan by the end of March.

VIJAY HAZARE TROPHY

Uttar Pradesh test awaits Karnataka

ASHIM SUNAM @Bengaluru

AS Karnataka kick off their Vijay Hazare Trophy campaign against Uttar Pradesh at the M Chinnaswamy Stadium here on Saturday, Ravikumar Samarth will be in focus. With the experienced opener appointed captain, it will be interesting to see how he can get the best out of the team without big players,including Mayank Agarwal, KL Rahul, Manish Pandey and Krishnappa Gowtham.

More importantly, the team will need his services with the bat after a poor show from their batsmen in the Syed Mushtaq Ali Trophy last month. Barring Devdutt Padikkal, none of the players showed any sort of consistency though they reached the knockouts. Even senior pro Karun Nair, who led in the domestic T20 tournament then, was miserable. This being a new tournament altogether, the likes of Nair, Samarth, Rohan Kadam, KV Siddharth and others have to bring their A Game to the table.

Ravikumar Samarth

"Obviously, they (Mayanak, Manish, Rahul and Pandey) are a huge boost if they are in a team. But over the past few years most of them have been a part of the national set up and unavailable for domestic matches. When they are available to play for Karnataka, we see it as a bonus. But in their absence, we fall back on our bench strength," said Samarth.

With teams in Group C including Uttar Pradesh, Kerala, Odisha, Bihar and Railways, Karnataka have to be on top of their game to reach the quarterfinals. One bad day at the office and things could get difficult for the defending champions.

"They (Uttar Pradesh and Kerala) are formidable teams. But that said, in limited overs, one player can take a match away. So, you cannot underestimate any team. We have to treat each team with the same respect and prepare in the right earnest," said Samarth. It would be a shame if they fail to get past the knockout stages as they have dominated the competition like no other in the last seven seasons, winning the title an impressive four times.

However, their bowling department looks in good shape in both the spin and pace department. Though Gowtham, who is a net bowler with the India team in the England Test series will be missed, they have J Suchith and Shreyas Gopal to handle spin responsibility. Pacers like Abhimanyu Mithun, Prasidh Krishna and Ronit More have the ammunition to trouble the opposition, which makes them a good all-round bowling unit.

Ankita emerges from shadows to clinch first WTA Tour level title

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN
@Chennai

ONE of the most oft-asked questions in Indian women's tennis over the last six years or so has been 'who after Sania Mirza?' On Friday, Ankita Raina once again put her hands up to say she has all the right tools at her disposal to eventually occupy centrestage. Raina, with her partner, Kamilla Rakhimova, won her first ever WTA Tour level title, the Phillip Island Trophy. The unseeded pair beat Anna Blinkova and Anastasia Potapova 2-6, 6-4, 10-7.

While the quality of opponents wasn't always great — it is, afterall, being held concurrently to the Australian Open — this is another significant first for the Indian, who has enjoyed a handy last 12-18 months. For starters, her new doubles ranking is likely to be No 95, a career high. In an Olympic year, it's likely to come in extremely handy.

Earlier this week, the 28-year-old also picked up her first Tour level singles main draw win. At the Australian Open less than two weeks earlier, she made her maiden Major appearance, partnering Mihaela Buzarnescu. Just before lockdown last year, she inspired the Indian team to the Fed Cup playoffs, with a series of wins in both singles and doubles.

What's led to Raina's rapid improvement in ranking as well as her results over the last 18 months or so? "I wouldn't say it's just the last 18 months or two years," says India's Fed Cup coach, Ankita Bhambri. "She has worked on her game and I'm not at surprised by the results she is having now.

"Just the way she is on and off the court, she doesn't get carried away. She has the same mentality, irrespective of whether she has a match point or is trying to save one. She is the epitome of hard work."

That is true. Even as several athletes the world over endured a difficult lockdown last year, Raina buckled down to find marginal ways. She enrolled in online classes apart from analysing old videos of herself to see where she could work on to further polish her game.

"I was initially doing small International Tennis Federation courses," she had told this daily then. "Apart from that, there was this workshop youth 2.0 on Zoom for three days. There was another three-day course by 'Art of Living'. I have also been watching videos of old matches."

As soon as the sport reopened, she was off, trying to put the things she had learned into practice. Even if the performances did not get the results she was after, that changed after a few tournaments. At Dubai in December, she won an ITF $100,000 doubles event with Ekaterine Gorgodze. She followed that up by reaching the last round of the qualifying event to the Australian Open.

The next question to ask is whether she can compete in both singles and doubles at a high level. Bhambri says she can. "There shouldn't be any problem. In fact, I'd say her net game has improved since she started playing doubles."

Just before the 2018 Asian Games bronze medallist left for Australia, Raina told this daily of a few goals for 2021: main draw Slam appearances in singles and breaching the top-100 mark. She is well on her way to fulfilling both those goals ahead of schedule.

FIRST FLIGHT ON MARS

Before getting to the main mission, NASA wants to run an eye-catching experiment. Perseverance's belly is a small helicopter drone that will attempt the first powered flight on another planet in a few weeks' time. Dubbed Ingenuity, it will have to achieve lift in an atmosphere that's one percent the density of Earth's, a demonstration of concept that could revolutionize the way humans explore other planets.

NASA Mars landing with an Indian flavour

Perseverance rover touched down on Red Planet in historic mission to search for indications of past life

SPACE

WASHINGTON: As Perseverance, the NASA rover, landed on the Martian surface in the early hours of Friday, millions of miles away in the US space agency's control room a woman's voice rang out: "Touchdown confirmed!"

The announcement was from Indian-American scientist Swati Mohan who leads the guidance, navigation, and control operations of NASA's Mars 2020 mission. In her role as flight controller, Mohan played a pivotal role in the landing of the spacecraft.

Mohan, who also wore a bindi, was the first to confirm that the rover had successfully touched down on the Martian surface after surviving a particularly tricky plunge through the atmosphere of the planet.

"Touchdown confirmed! Perseverance safely on the surface of Mars, ready to begin seeking signs of past life," Mohan announced, prompting her colleagues at NASA to fist-bump and break into celebrations.

The landing marks the third visit to Mars in just over a week. Two spacecraft from the United Arab Emirates and China swung into orbit around Mars on successive days last week. All three missions lifted off in July to take advantage of the close alignment of Earth and Mars, journeying some 300 million miles in nearly seven months.

Mohan, who emigrated from India to the US when she was only a year old, said the Guidance, Navigation, and Controls Operations (GN&C) are the "eyes and ears" of the spacecraft.

Commenting on her team's role in the current mission, Mohan said their job during the cruise phase heading towards Mars was to figure out how the spacecraft is oriented, and make sure it is pointed correctly in space -- "solar arrays to sun, antenna to Earth, and maneuver the spacecraft to get it where we want to go", she was quoted as saying in her bio on the NASA website.

Mars Mission's Operations Lead Swati Mohan, who became interested in space after seeing Star Trek when she was 9, looks at data ahead of the rover landing on Thursday night. Inset is a file image of a maskless Swati | NASA

There were "seven minutes of terror" leading to the entry, descent, and landing on Mars, she said. GN&C determines the position of the spacecraft and commands the maneuvers to help it land safely. "As the team's operations lead, I am the primary point of communication between the GN&C subsystem and the rest of the project," she said.

Raised in the Northern Virginia-Washington DC metro area, she completed her bachelor's degree from Cornell University in Mechanical & Aerospace Engineering, and her MS and PhD from MIT in Aeronautics/Astronautics.

The size of an SUV, Perseverance weighs a ton, is equipped with a 7-foot-long robotic arm, has 19 cameras, two microphones and a suite of cutting-edge instruments to assist in its scientific goals. It will collect rock and soil samples in the coming years.

7 MINUTES OF TERROR

Perseverance, the biggest, most advanced rover ever sent by NASA, became the ninth spacecraft since the 1970s to successfully land on Mars. An even bigger challenge of sending Mars samples to Earth awaits the mission

RISKY LANDING

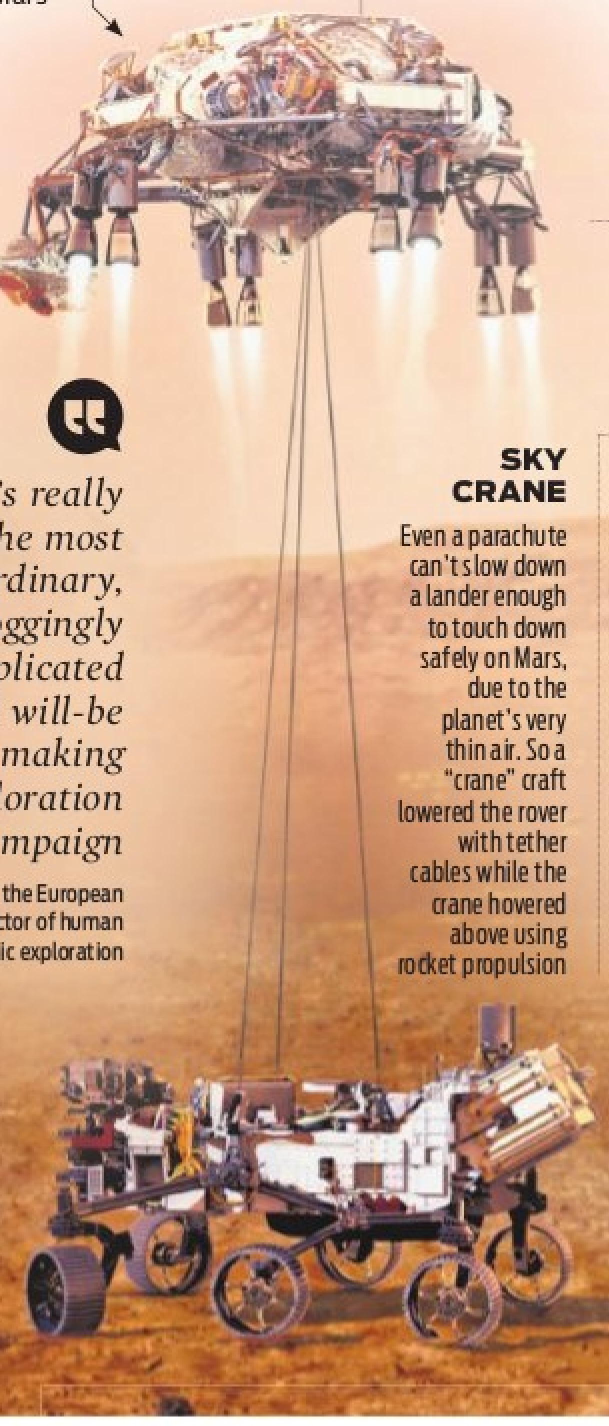
Before it could set out on its lofty quest, it first had to overcome the dreaded "seven minutes of terror" -- the risky entry, descent and landing phase that has scuppered nearly half of all missions to Mars

20,000 KM/HR — 16 TIMES THE SPEED OF SOUND

The spacecraft carrying Perseverance careened into the Martian atmosphere at 20,000 kilometers per hour, protected by its heat shield. It then deployed a supersonic 70-foot parachute before firing up an eight-engined jetpack. Finally, it used the rocket-steered platform known as a sky crane to lower the rover the final 60 or so feet to the surface

11.30

It took a nail-biting 11 1/2 minutes for the signal confirming the landing to reach Earth



It's really the most extraordinary, mind-bogglingly complicated and will-be history-making exploration campaign

David Parker, the European agency's director of human and robotic exploration

SKY CRANE

Even a parachute can't slow down a lander enough to touch down safely on Mars, due to the planet's very thin air. So a "crane" craft lowered the rover with tether cables while the crane hovered above using rocket propulsion

PARKING LOT

NASA said that the descent was flawless and that the rover came down in a "parking lot" — a relatively flat spot amid hazardous rocks. Hours after the landing, Matt Wallace, NASA deputy project manager, reported that the spacecraft was in great shape

8-BY-6-KM STRIP

The car-size, plutonium-powered vehicle arrived at Jezero Crater, hitting NASA's smallest and trickiest target yet: a 8-by-6-kilometre strip on an ancient river delta full of pits, cliffs and rocks

ULTIMATE CHALLENGE

Never before have scientists had access to a sample from Mars or any other planet. For the first time, a rover will be sending back rock samples from Mars to Earth

2031

The samples will be sent back in three missions spanning the next 10 years

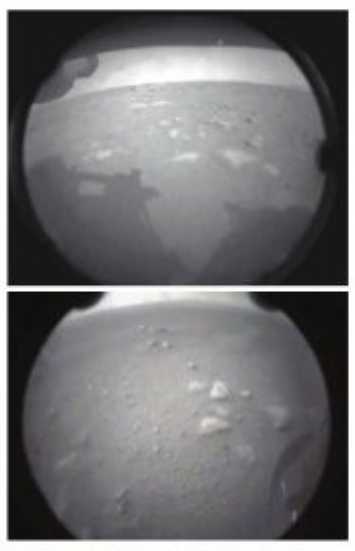
HOW THIS WILL WORK

The rover will collect 40 cores from the ground, each core the size of a single piece of chalk The core will be triple sealed to prevent contamination and will just be dropped on Mars' surface

2028

The samples will be sent back in three missions spanning the next 10 years

Nasa will send a separate rover spacecraft to Mars that will pick up the dropped cores. The rover will load the cores into the rocket, which will then prepare for the 1st-ever launch from Mars. After launch, the rocket will drop the cores into' orbit, which will be picked up by yet another spacecraft from Earth



MARS IMAGES

After landing, Perseverance promptly sent back two grainy, black-and-white photos of Mars' pockmarked, pimply-looking surface, the rover's shadow visible in the frame of one picture

$3 BILLION

COST OF PERSEVERANCE'S MISSION

MAIN MISSION

Mars was warmer and wetter in its distant past, and while previous exploration has determined the planet was habitable, Perseverance is tasked with determining whether it was actually inhabited

It will begin drilling its first samples in summer, and along the way it will deploy new instruments to scan for organic matter, map chemical composition and zap rocks with a laser to study the vapour

Despite the rover's state-of-the-art technology, bringing samples back to Earth remains crucial because of anticipated ambiguities in the specimens it documents

For example, fossils that arose from ancient microbes may look suspiciously similar to patterns caused by precipitation

1 vax dose cuts 85% of cases in medics

STUDY

JERUSALEM: The first dose of the Pfizer vaccination is 85 percent effective against coronavirus infection between two and four weeks after inoculation, according to a study published in the Lancet journal.

The survey was carried out on healthcare workers at the largest hospital in Israel, which on Dec 19 launched a mass vaccination campaign regarded as the world's fastest.

Israeli studies have found the Pfizer vaccine to be 95 percent effective one week after a second jab, while the Lancet report focused on more than 9,000 medical staff at Sheba hospital near Tel Aviv.

Some 7,000 of them received the first dose and the rest were not inoculated.

From the group, 170 were diagnosed with Covid-19 after tests carried out only on those showing symptoms or who had been in contact with coronavirus carriers.

Fifty-two percent of them were found to have not been vaccinated.

Comparing the two groups, the Sheba study calculated that the vaccine was 47 percent effective between one and 14 days after inoculation, rising to 85 percent after 15 to 28 days.

"What we see is a really high effectiveness already right after two weeks, between two weeks to four weeks after vaccine, already high effectiveness of 85 percent reduction of symptomatic infection," Gili Regev-Yochay, co-author of the study, told a small group of journalists. He said that despite the vaccine being "amazingly effective", scientists are still studying whether fully vaccinated people can transmit the virus to others.

Pfizer vax can take the heat

BioNTech and Pfizer said tests have shown that their vaccine can be stored for up to 2 weeks at -25°C to -15°C (temperatures of pharmaceutical refrigerators). Under current guidelines, the vaccine needs to be stored a frigid -80°C to -60°C.

46 whales die stranded on Indonesia beach

CONSERVATION

JAKARTA: Forty-six small whales stranded on a beach in Indonesia have died, after rescue efforts succeeded in saving three others, local officials said Friday.

Starting Thursday, at least 49 short-finned pilot whales arrived at a beach on Madura Island in northern Java, authorities said in a statement.

Large crowds gathered as a rescue operation was launched, with volunteers using tarpaulins or just their bare hands to try to push the pod back out to sea. Curious onlookers took pictures and touched the whales, while others tried to splash water on them.In the end, only three of the animals survived.

"The live whales had to be released together as they live in a group," said East Java governor Khofifah Indar Parawansa. He said officials had taken samples of the carcasses for further investigation into the cause of death.

He added that the corpses, which measure from three to five metres each, would be buried on the beach at low tide. Offshore cross-currents in the area pose a danger to whales.

FACT OF THE MATTER

China looks to boost birthrate

DEMOGRAPHY

China is considering additional measures to increase its flagging birthrate, more than four years after ending its one-child policy. For decades, China enforced strict controls on additional births in the name of preserving scarce resources for its burgeoning economy. But its plunging birthrate is now seen as a major threat to economic progress and social stability. On Thursday, the National Health Commission issued a statement saying it will conduct research to 'further stimulate birth potential.' It said the initiative will focus first on northeastern China, the country's former industrial heartland that has seen a major population decline as young people and families depart for better opportunities elsewhere.

New damage at nuke plant?

ENVIRONMENT

Cooling water levels have fallen in two reactors at the wrecked Fukushima nuclear plant since a powerful earthquake hit the area last weekend, indicating possible additional damage. New damage could further complicate the plant's already difficult decommissioning process, which is expected to take decades. Tokyo Electric Power Co. spokesman Keisuke Matsuo said the drop in water levels in the Unit 1 and 3 reactors indicates that the existing damage to their primary containment chambers was worsened by Saturday's quake, allowing more water to leak. The leaked water is believed to have remained inside the reactor buildings.

TRACKING MUTATIONS

N440K virus variant spreading more in southern Indian states

SCIENCE

NEW DELHI: A new coronavrius variant with escape ability, N440K, is spreading faster in some states, and virus mutation will result in new variants, as per a CSIR-CCMB study.

The novel variants that are worrying many countries globally, have been identified with only a low prevalence in India so far. These include the variants with immune-escape E484K mutation and the N501Y mutation with higher transmission rate.

"However, their apparent low prevalence might be simply because not enough sequencing has been done. More coronavirus genomes need to be sequenced across the country to accurately identify the emergence of these and other new variants", said Dr Rakesh Mishra, Director, CCMB and corresponding author on the study.

The study also finds that a few novel variants are spreading more in some states of India. "We now have emerging evidence that N440K is spreading a lot more in southern states. Closer surveillance is needed to understand its spread properly. Accurate and timely detection of new variants that may show greater infectivity or worse clinical symptoms, including immune escape, will be extremely important to preempt disastrous consequences," said Mishra.

In this paper, the authors explain how different coronavirus variants gained prevalence in India during the last one year. One of the variants, called the A3i had mutations that were predicted to make its spread slower.

The study confirms that it was overtaken by the globally prevalent A2a variant, carrying the D614G mutation, by June 2020. The A2a variant has remained in global dominance for the major part of the year 2020.

The recently discovered variants in many countries have raised concerns because of their mutations in the Spike protein that makes the coat of the virus and come in contact with the human cells.

Some of these coronavirus variants can also be immune-escape, and cause reinfection.

We need to have a focused approach towards monitoring the virus mutations. India has not been sequencing SARS-CoV-2 isolates to full capacity, having deposited only about6,400 genomes so far," concludes Dr Divya Tej Sowpati, the co-corresponding author of the study.

Chatty robot cheers up patients

TECHNOLOGY

Cleaning robot Franzi makes sure floors are spotless at the Munich hospital where she works, and has taken on a new role during the pandemic: cheering up patients and staff. "Can you move out the way, please? I need to clean," trills the robot in German when people block her pre-programmed cleaning route. "You need to move! I really want to clean!" she squeaks at those who still don't get out of the way. And if that doesn't work, digital tears begin to stream from her LED-light eyes. "Visitors are not allowed in the pandemic, so Franzi entertains the patients a bit," says Constance Rettler of Dr. Rettler, the company in charge of cleaning the Neuperlach hospital that provided the robot. Three times a day, Franzi bustles through the clinic's entrance hall, her feet automatically mopping the floors. Amused patients take photos of her, and some even stop to chat to the metre-high robot. "Ah, there you are my friend," cries one elderly lady with a drip on her arm upon catching sight of Franzi.

DAY'S DIARY

A new term

On this day in 1909, Italian author Filippo Tommaso Marinetti coined the term Futurism in 'Le Figaro'

WHAT IS FUTURISM?

Futurism was an Italian art movement from 1908 – 1944 that aimed to capture the dynamism and energy of the modern world in art through movement, dynamism, modernity, industry & technology

CELEBRATED WORKS

His collection of verses, Guerra sola igiene del mondo (1915) celebrated World War I as an act of futurism. He espoused the merits of futurism in his writings, including his volume of essays, Futurismo e fascismo (1924), and his play, Tamburo di Fuoco (1932)

IN ARCHITECTURE

Architecture also experienced futurism. Antonio Sant' Elia expressed his ideas of modernity in his drawings for La Citta Nuova (The New City)

Fairytale endings often come complete a castle but couples in the city are opting for properties with old-world charm to exchange vows

MONIKA MONALISA

THERE is a reason why The Big Day, Netflix's latest series that takes a look at lavish weddings, is currently on top of people's list of must-watch mushy shows. Weddings with lavish and grand venues with the perfect lighting and decor is the stuff dreams are made of. Closer home, Bengaluru couples are opting for houses with old-world charm as the venue to start their new life.

While intimate gatherings are still need of the hour, many don't want to miss out on grandeur and royalty for their D-day. This has made Tamarind Tree on Kanakapura Road a hot favourite. The 66-year-old property keeps the traditional charm intact and has elements of Andhra Pradesh and Chettinad decor. Venkatram Reddy, owner of the property and an antique collector, hand picked things for the property. "Most people fall in love with the antique pieces, furniture and the decor," says Naveen Kumar, an employee. He explains that the property has a quaint and intimate space for smaller gatherings of 50-100 people, which is mostly the preferred number of guests in these times.

Agrees Vijaya S, the co-owner of Le Roma Gardenia. Shetty believes the nostalgia factor also seems to be winning people over. "I've also noticed that if the owner is involved with the property, it adds to the value of it since it gives a homely feeling. I maintain the place with my family and 18 staff members, who also live on premises," says Vijaya, who has deliberately kept the pathways uneven to give people the feel of old Bengaluru.

Akhila Srinivas, founder of the Courtyad Cafe, a 70-year-old property near Shantinagar, says the trend of intimate wedding has been on the rise due to the pandemic. "Since our property is an old house, it brings out a character of its own. Earlier, we used to host private events, but after the lockdown we have had enquiries about weddings too," says Srinivas, adding that post lockdown, they have had three weddings at the space.

Parul Bhati, a marketing professional, who tied the knot at The Courtyard Cafe in January, had 45 guests in attendance. "I came across the cafe some years ago. When we decided to hold an intimate wedding, I started looking at places online but none of the usual spots felt right. When I read The Courtyard is also doing weddings, I knew it would be perfect," says Bhati, who also did a live stream so that other guests didn't miss out on the festivities.

NEW INITIATIVE TO EXTEND CREDIT FACILITY TO MSMEs

Indian Bank has signed an MoU with Society of Innovation and Development (SID), which is an initiative of the Indian Institute of Science, Bengaluru, to extend credit facility to startups and MSMEs. The initiative is a part of the Bank's scheme Ind Spring Board for financing Start-ups and MSMEs and offer loans upto ₹50 crore for capital investment.

SID will identify the startups and MSMEs that require financial assistance and ensure a positive cash flow to the business. The MoU was signed by Sudhakar Rao (GM, MSME, Indian Bank) and Prof B Gurumoorthy, chief executive, SID.

DOING THE DIFFERENT

The feel of a cello or guitar on a violin? Yes, that's what Aneesh Vidyashankar has done in the motion poster of Bhajarangi 2

VIDYA IYENGAR

To be on top of the game, you've got to work on it 24/7. This need for innovation is especially felt in these times because there's so much available," says walking violinist Aneesh Vidyashankar. So, when he got a call from music composer Arjun Janya to work on the motion poster of Bhajarangi 2, Vidyashankar grabbed the offer. "It was only when I went to the studio that I was told that I needed to create 'different' sounds with the violin, that of a cello, guitar, a throaty roar, etc," he says about the motion poster which released recently. "I had to think on my feet but since this is an area I have been working on, we wrapped things up in 45 minutes," says Vidyashankar.

Vidyashankar has been experimenting with the violin with music composer Charan Raj. "He was trying to create an orchestra section using just one violin. At this point in time, that's what people want," says Vidyashankar, who will next be seen in Prayashaha, in which he features in a song, which is scheduled to release this month. "Musicians have always been behind the scenes. But things are changing," says the artiste who completes 25 years of being a professional violinist. Having started learning the violin under the tutelage of his father and guru, S R Vidyashankar, he started performances at the age of five.

While the pandemic definitely hit the musician's work – with 64 confirmed shows between March and August being called off – Vidyashankar now says things have bounced back to a great extent. "There was a talk of revenge spending on travelling, that's what it is for entertainment too. But what has emerged is that people are also conscious of where they put their money. With digital options having opened up, people are spoilt for choices. So, if we have to survive 2021, we've got to do the different," says Vidyashankar.

By The Way

Bengaluru boy KC Cariappa is finally playing in the Indian Premier League for the Rajasthan Royals. Kannada film star Kichcha Sudeep extended his wishes to the cricketer on social media. "So so so happy for u @cariappa14 champ. Finall2021yyy, it happens after a long wait, a well deserving one. Rise and shine, mch power and success to you," the actor said. Sudeep sure knows how to play cheerleader!

SELF-LOVE ON POINT

If you're feeling low, Shanvi Srivastava's latest Instagram post might give you just the dose of motivation you need. The actor penned some wise words like, "This year i have decided to accept myself as a whole, My body...my emotions.... my feelings... This year I have decided to love myself a lil more....".

B'luru's streets are synonymous with cars and bikes, but this event will give you a chance to learn about old steam locomotives in the city

Location: Indira Gandhi Musical Fountain Park, Raj Bhavan Road

This is the youngest steam locomotive displayed in the city. The NH/5 Class 2' narrow gauge locomotive was built in 1959 by Nippon Sharyo and Company, Japan. This locomotive was operated by the Central Railway on the narrow gauge lines of the erstwhile Scindia State Railway in Gwalior.

Full steam ahead

SANATH PRASAD

Learning about steam locomotives and their origins may be a niche interest for some. But TR Raghunandan has been busy tracking down the origins of steam engines in Bengaluru in order to showcase their interesting journey. The heritage conservationist and former civil servant will now be a part of an event that gives participants an account of a steam engine stationed at Indira Gandhi Musical Fountain Park. The event is spearheaded by Heritage Beku, a citizen initiative, along with the Department of Horticulture and South Western Railways, on Saturday.

"I love steam engines and I do a lot of archiving of them. I also make models of Indian steam locomotives. Bangalore has five steam locomotives. They operated under different state railway departments before landing in here," says Raghunandan, who will be moderating the event about the steam engine from Gwalior.

The steam locomotive located at Indira Gandhi Musical Foundation Park

According to Raghunandan, the city's oldest steam locomotive is in Visvesvaraya Industrial and Technological Museum and it used to belong to the erstwhile Mysore State Railway. Now, it is with the Southern Railway. The youngest steam locomotive is located at Indira Gandhi Musical Foundation Park. "The government must take responsibility to restore steam locomotives and showcase them in the authentic state. Most locomotives are crumbling due to poor maintenance. Restoration does not mean decoration, but bringing them back to its original form."

Steam engines go back to the 1950s central India, when the Indian Railway was nationalised, says Raghunandan. He explains how most of these steam locomotives were either bought by manufacturing factories or by the South Western Railways later. Besides focusing on restoring the steam engines, the South Western Railways also plans to revive the railway heritage of Bengaluru. According to Ashok Kumar Verma, Divisional Railway Manager, Bengaluru division, South Western Railways is planning to revive the old railway circuit route near Nandi Hills and Devanahalli. Efforts are also ongoing to establish a rail museum. "It is important to initiate railway preservation plans as a holistic approach and revive the old stations. Besides a rail museum, we are also working on a handicraft park that can house locally made artefacts," he says.

New menus, high tea specials, curated festivals... Restaurants are trying to bring back diner confidence with new food and beverage experiences

The lockdown and the fear of the virus have put immense stress on the hospitality business. Restaurant owners have lived through an era of uncertainty and are hoping to return to some normalcy with the gradual opening of restaurants and bars. While room occupancy in city hotels is yet to pick up pace, it is heartening to see diners return. Seeing this encouraging trend, restaurants are leaving no stone unturned to bring back diner confidence not just with safety measures, but also with exciting food and beverage experiences. Think new menu launches, unique food festivals, high tea specials, splashy restaurant openings, the works.

Blue Ginger at the Taj West End is celebrating the Vietnamese Lunar New Year with 'The Taste of Tet', an ongoing food promotion marking the arrival of spring. Culinary treasures from Vietnam take centre stage here with hearty soups, Banh Mi, Rice Paper Rolls, Grilled Prawns, Chicken or Vegetable Red Curries and Coconut Caramel Custard. On the other hand, Yauatcha welcomed the Chinese New Year with a limited-edition menu available until month-end. The Year of the Ox menu offers Tofu And Enoki Mushroom Dumpling, Crispy Chicken Cheung Fun, Spicy Crab Dumpling, Stir-Fry Silken Tofu and Firecracker, an explosive dessert made with Roasted Hazelnut, Szechuan Chantilly, Yuzu Gel And Caramel And Madeleine Sponge.

On the regional front, Caraway Kitchen at Conrad has on an ongoing gastronomical journey of Karnataka cuisine by chef Boominathan. The food at Naati Ruchigalu contains country style flavours with locally sourced meats and vegetables prepared with secret home ground masalas. The menu will remind you of Military Mess with Donne Biryani, Ragi Mudde, Keema Ball Curry, Mutton Kurma and Bannur chops.

ITC Gardenia will host a Rajasthani food promotion from next week at Cubbon Pavilion with chef KS Akshraj Jodha who is the executive chef at ITC Windsor and the 14th descendant of Rao Akheraj, who founded Akheraj Deolia. At the same hotel, Bangalore Wine Society is hosting a five-course Italian wine dinner, Chapter I Cena de Vino at Ottimo, by founder Suryaveer Singh and co-hosted by Abhilash Mithren.

This has also been a season of new menu launches. After a successful reign of 27 years, Rim Naam, the Thai restaurant at The Oberoi, had shut down early last year to make way for a completely new kitchen and menu. The new dishes are a result of a survey undertaken by the hotel where they asked regular patrons about their favourite dishes and new innovations they would like to see at the restaurant. Recently, Rim Naam has been chosen for the Thai Select award given by the Royal Thai Government, which guarantees the authenticity of Thai restaurants.

Shangri-La Hotel has launched Tea Amore at their Lobby Lounge. Here you can indulge in a leisurely afternoon over teas, artisanal coffees, cocktails and sweet and savoury bites.

ALBA, at the JW Marriott, has a new chef de cuisine, Vishal Thakur, and an upcoming menu focused on Nouvelle European cuisine based around locally grown ingredients while ensuring a sustainable dining approach.

Buoyed by encouraging dining out trends, the past couple of months have witnessed a slew of new restaurant openings. The legendary Tycoons opened in Indiranagar much to the joy of city folks; Bollywood-inspired Badmaash Lounge launched its second outlet at UB City with a focus on Indian fine-dining; RCB Bar and Cafe opened its door in the heart of the city with a space which mingles sports frenzy with great cocktails, and, the much-awaited Mirage unveiled with a setting from where you can soak in uber-luxe food and drinks under a cool-blue Bengaluru sky. Meanwhile, the contemporary-styled Khmer Kitchen made an opening splash with a Cambodian menu. Nestled in a spacious home and surrounded by trees, Khmer's menu offers Angkor jasmine rice, fresh green pepper, noni leaves, kaffir lime, turmeric and freshly made Kreoung paste. Khmer transforms into an artisanal café and patisserie during the day with handpicked single estate coffees, pastries, bread and tarts. Ozaa, the rooftop poolside restaurant specialising in Mediterranean grills, opened at the Oakwood Premier Prestige in UB City, offering stunning views of the city's skyline. This is complemented by Chef Altamsh Patel's menu which is a blend of Lebanese, Jordanian, Moroccan, Greek and Syrian cuisines.

Joy in a nutshell

SANATH PRASAD

A brief stop at Yelneer Katte comes with double the pleasure. The eatery in Basavanagudi is making news for serving shakes and ice creams in tender coconut shells. Founded by Ravishankar and his seven-member team, Yelneer Katte offers seven varieties of coconut shakes and ice cream blends each, in flavours like musk melon, guava and banana. "Most of us were struggling to make ends meet during the pandemic. Some of our friends from various backgrounds like IT and entertainment brainstormed in December to start a food business that will create jobs," says Anand JS, one of the partners.

The aim is to reduce plastic use, says co-founder Suman Kulkarni, who is also a nutritionist. "With the pandemic, more people are now opting for healthy food," she adds. The milk used by them is the natural extraction from coconut pulp. Dry fruit coconut shake with chocolate ice cream is one of the most sought-after flavours here. "College students are the primary customers here. Hence, we have kept prices under ₹100," Kulkarni adds. Coconuts are procured daily directly from farmers in Maddur, KR Pete and Harsikere. "So the business model becomes profitable for both," says Ravishankar.

Customers visit here from distant places like Mathikere and Sarjapur. "I came all the way from Sarjapur after seeing this on social media. It is definitely worth a visit," Ramesh, a customer, said.

POGARU: A treat for Dhruva Sarja fans

Pogaru is a battlefield of emotions and Dhruva Sarja shines in this unique script. The three years of hard work for the film by the actor and director Nanda Kishore pays off on the screen and the massive expectation created during its pre-release is met.

The story of Pogaru is mostly told by the protagonist, Shiva, a local youth whose bitter childhood makes him 'notorious'. Shiva longs for his deceased father and his only weakness becomes his mother (Pavithra Lokesh). He goes all out to get her attention and love, but, all his attempts backfire. However, an incident takes place between him and his sister (Mayuri), which becomes the turning point in his life, and there is a drastic change in his behaviour. How Shiva becomes a messiah to the people living in his neighbourhood, and how it affects them forms the rest of the story. Watch out for much-awaited Dhruva's face-off with the four international bodybuilders in the climax.

Director Nanda Kishore's has weaved a 'mass' film, made with right family elements with the right dose of melodrama. He has used his creative freedom wisely and has delivered mixed emotions. The narrative tends to be one-sided, mostly depicted from the hero's perspective.

Nanda Kishore has successfully experimented with a new character for Dhruva Sarja. As the ruffian, he comfortably sails through his role, and he does a great job of engaging the audience from start to end. His schoolboy avatar, for which he lost 33 kilograms, looks flawless. His transformation to the young look definitely needs an appreciation. Certain action sequences of him in the films remind us of his uncle Arjun Sarja. Dhruva has made sure that his usual lengthy dialogue delivery scenes are present in this film to cater to his fans. Even though this gets over the top rarely, he keeps us entertaining. The actor has also worked hard to get the details of his look right.

Rashmika Mandanna, who plays Dhruva's love interest, does justice to her role and Ravi Shankar, who is famous for his villainous roles, is a surprise in Pogaru. Dhananjay, Mayuri and Sampath Raj do not have much scope to perform and also sees Raghavendra Rajkumar in a cameo appearance. The song compositions by Chandan Shetty, especially The Karaabu song and the title track Notorious stand out. The background by V Harikrishna uplift the scenes and adds the required mass appeal. Cinematographer Vijay Milton's work aligns with the director's greater vision. Overall, Pogaru is a treat for Dhruva's fans who value his hard work and celebrate his onscreen presence.
